MacArthur Smashes 4 Great Tycoon Tie-ups in Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Gen. MacArthur today smashed Japan's four greatest financial and industrial families and gave notice of his intention to break up all such combines to "aid Japanese economic development along peaceful, democratic lines."

The Japanese government was ordered immediately to prepare to dissolve Mitsubishi, Sumitomo and Yasuda Zaibatsu and their holding companies and to eliminate their controls of Japanese finances and industries.

Breaking up of the fabulous houses of industry was expected to create an international financial headache in the question of how to dispose of thousands of shares of stock held by foreign firms.

Allied headquarters issued a survey revealing widespread ramifications in the prewar tie-up between Japan's "Big Four" industrial empires and firms throughout the world.

Canadian Mercy Plane Crashes; 4 Die

LONDON (CP)—An R.C.A.F. Flying Fortress carrying penicillin from Canada to Warsaw crashed today near Muenster, Germany, it was learned at R.C.A.F. headquarters. It was reported unofficially that four crew members were killed.

It was said an official statement would be issued in Ottawa. Details of the crash were unavailable.

The penicillin was being flown via Prestwick, Scotland, to a Polish hospital at the urgent request of the Polish government, which is seeking to combat the spread of venereal disease, more than 1,000,000 cases of which have been reported in Poland.

Dutch Disclose Plan for Indies To Little Effect

BATAVIA (AP)—The government of the Netherlands East Indies, trying to restore order in this land wracked by a struggle for independence, made public today a plan for "rapid development of Indonesia as a partner in a kingdom which will be constructed to guarantee the self respect of all member-peoples."

H. J. Van Mook, Acting Governor-General of the Indies, who released the program, disclosed it had been presented more than a week ago to Indonesian Nationalist leaders as a basis for settlement of their demands.

His statement was issued in an atmosphere of growing tension, emphasized by a new outbreak of street fighting in Batavia between Indonesian extremists and Dutch troops.

Dr. I. R. Soekarno, self-styled president of the "Indonesian Republic," said in a statement the Dutch had no reasonable answer for the difficulties and "know they are unequal to the task of imposing their domination on us."

"As long as the world sees no way out of the present impasse except by supporting the Dutch claim to Indonesia, that long Indonesia will be unable to contribute its potential wealth to the enrichment of the world," Soekarno said.

TO ASSUME DEBTS
The nationalist leader said his "Republic," when recognized, would assume all debts of the Dutch East Indies and hand over property to rightful foreign owners, except properties needed by the state. He asserted his regime intended to take a place in the United Nations' Organization and adhere to the San Francisco Charter. He promised a general election. Large credits and shipments of manufactured goods would be sought from the United States, he added.

Indonesian leaders were reported to have urged Governor-General Van Mook not to release the document, fearing that his proposals—which are far short of their demands—would only increase the gulf between their people and the Dutch.

In essence, Governor-General Van Mook's statement was a reiteration of previous Dutch offers to grant the Indonesians self government and independence within the limits of a Dutch Commonwealth, but it was reinforced by assurances of racial equality and full partnership with the Netherlands.

"Room will be made for the development of business of every size for all racial groups, and the participation of Indonesians, Indo-Chinese and Indo-Arabs in big business will be furthered," the statement said.

Government Officials, Union Leaders Meet for Hour's Talk At Windsor

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Government and union officials conferred for one hour today on the strike at the Ford Motor Company plant here which led to sympathy strikes in 28 other plants, with no indication that settlement proposals were advanced.

Further meetings, however, with the union and with the company were scheduled later today.

Federal Labor Minister Mitchell, provincial Attorney-General Leslie Blackwell, Mayor Arthur Reaume of Windsor and George Burt, Canadian director of the United Automobile Workers' Union (C.I.O.) addressed today's first conference.

SITUATION REVIEWED

Mr. Mitchell said afterwards: "We had an exceptionally good meeting. No proposals were advanced. There were merely statements from the various parties and the situation was reviewed."

The government officials later were to meet again with Mr. Burt and the presidents of the two Windsor locals involved. A meeting with company officials was also scheduled.

Today's meeting with the union was called by Mr. Mitchell, who flew here from Ottawa Monday night and conferred with company officials shortly after his arrival.

PLANT BLOCKADED

The giant Ford plant was still blockaded with hundreds of cars, trucks and buses driven into a tight barrier on surrounding streets by union men Monday. Altogether it is estimated about 20,000 workers are idle. Engines of city buses caught in the barricade were started up periodically by a bus driver to keep them in running order.

The union maintained a patrol over the barricade following complaints some tires had been deflated.

One member of the union policy committee commented after today's first meeting that "the big issue—removal of the police—didn't come up." Squads of Royal Canadian Mounted and Ontario Provincial Police to the number of about 250 men were flown to Windsor last Friday.

Top question on the conference agenda was to find a solution for the strike involving 10,000 production workers of the Ford Motor Company of Canada which began Sept. 12 when U.A.W. Local 200 called out its 8,000 members in a dispute over a new collective bargaining contract.

Monday U.A.W. Local 195, which has about 8,500 members, called sympathy strikes in 27 plants employing some 12,000 workers. The half-mile steel barricade was composed of about 1,500 motor vehicles when it was jammed on the street outside the main and office entrances to the sprawling plant Monday. Some of the vehicles belong to union members and others are owned by private citizens.

COUNCIL THREATENS

There was no immediate reaction by the union to a warning issued Monday night by the city council that failure to remove the barricade might bring the use of military force to clear it away.

Core of the issue in the Ford dispute are union demands for such union security clauses as a union shop—with union membership a condition of employment—and compulsory checkoff of union dues.

Leaders of 27 A.F.L. unions and 10 Canadian Congress of Labor unions announced this morning their locals will not take any strike action unless police are used in the Ford dispute. They are non-automotive unions and Ford strikers. They represent some 15,000 workers.

As Mr. Mitchell's conference opened today about 1,000 pickets, both men and women paraded in a circular line beyond the vehicle barricade opposite the main entrance to the Ford plant. The small overnight picket began growing at 6 a.m. and was soon joined by groups from both locals 200 and 195. One of the groups was led by a bagpiper—he wasn't wearing kilts—and a cheer went up as his group joined the line.

FROM CHRYSLER'S

A short time later 2,000 striking employees of the Chrysler Corporation marched from their plant to join the Ford pickets. There were no police in the barricaded area, but some were on the outskirts directing traffic.

It was reported that three cars forced into the barricade Monday were restored to the owners on orders of union officials.

Just before entering the conference, Mr. Mitchell told reporters he deprecated the act of a "minority group" of the union in forming the barricade. It would not be helpful toward a solution.

In contrast to a statement Monday night, when he said he might return to Ottawa tonight, the minister said this morning he was prepared to stay two weeks, if necessary.

Two In Hospital After Blaze On Oliphant Street

Two persons were injured in escaping from a fire which early today swept through the "Brae Mar" Apartments, 1012 Oliphant Street, forcing occupants, to flee into the wintry outside air dressed in night attire.

Arthur R. Cox was taken first to Royal Jubilee Hospital and later at his request to St. Joseph's Hospital suffering from cuts and bruises on the face and arm, apparently received in a jump from a window, police said.

Mrs. M. A. Inverarity was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital suffering from back injuries and burns. Police said she had jumped or fallen from the top floor of the house, which has a basement flat and two upper stories.

Policeman Attracted By Screams and Flames

First alarm was turned in by Constable Brooke Douglass, who thought he saw smoke and heard a scream and, investigating, saw flames inside the house. He called the fire department and, by the time the fire trucks arrived, flames were licking upward through the house from the main floor.

Mrs. Robert Gonnason, who with her husband occupied an apartment on the top floor, said the smell of smoke had awakened her. She woke her husband, and the pair called to Mrs. Inverarity, who also lived on the top floor, to hurry down the stairs. On getting outside, however, they found that Mrs. Inverarity had not come down the stairs, and Gonnason went up the fire escape ladder at the back of the house to find out where she was.

Mrs. Inverarity's cat came at his call, he said, and then Mrs. Inverarity fell, knocking him from the ladder.

Mr. and Mrs. Gonnason were married two years ago, and the apartment was the first they had managed to secure. Gonnason received his discharge from the navy on V.J. Day with the rank of lieutenant.

Mr. and Mrs. Cox, living on the main floor of the house where the fire apparently started, had just seen their daughter, Margaret Patricia, married Monday evening. Miss Cox married Sgt. Alex Clow, R.C.A.F., at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. A reception was held during the evening at The Priory, Pemberton Road, and the young couple caught the midnight boat to spend their honeymoon in Vancouver before proceeding to Toronto, where they will live.

Some of their wedding presents were in the apartment. Police were informed, however, that two loads of wedding presents were saved and removed to a neighbor's house on Mrs. Cox's instructions. A purse and its contents belonging to Mrs. Gonnason were reported found outside the house and turned over to police.

The caretakers, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson, lived in the basement apartment, which was not seriously damaged, although water played on the blaze by two pump trucks trickled down into the Thompsons' living quarters.

Mrs. Elizabeth Doidge and her young son escaped in night clothes from the fire. Neighbors accommodated the tenants of the house.

Wrecked Interior Of Two Upper Stories

The fire wiped out most of the interior of the two upper stories of the house, leaving the walls, floors and ceilings charred and black. The furniture and possessions of the tenants of the apartments on these floors mostly were destroyed in the blaze. A small quantity of broken and burned furniture lay on the lawn outside the house after the fire.

A number of war savings certificates and a quantity of jewelry belonging to Mrs. Inverarity were taken to the police station. At Royal Jubilee Hospital Mrs. Inverarity's condition was described as not serious, although she was reported suffering from painful burns.

Molotov Declares Atomic Energy Information Should Be Shared

LONDON (CP)—Foreign Commissar Molotov of Russia declared in a Moscow address today "there ought to be no secrecy about the subject of atomic energy."

The problem of control over Japan "has not so far been definitely solved," he declared in an address celebrating the 28th anniversary of the Soviet revolution, "but we are confident that peace-loving countries will certainly find a way out."

He spoke to a cheering crowd in a ceremony broadcast by the Moscow radio on the eve of the annual Nov. 7 celebration.

The Foreign Commissar, deputy chairman of the Council of Peoples' Commissars, said the main strongpoints of aggression in west and east had been liquidated. The radio said the celebration opened amid scenes of great rejoicing.

Premier Stalin, back in the capital from vacation, was proposed as honorary chairman of the proceedings, the broadcast reported. He did not speak.

FIRST MENTION

Mr. Molotov declared: "We must mention here the force of atomic energy which was experienced in the war with Japan. Nowadays there ought to be no secrecy about this subject."

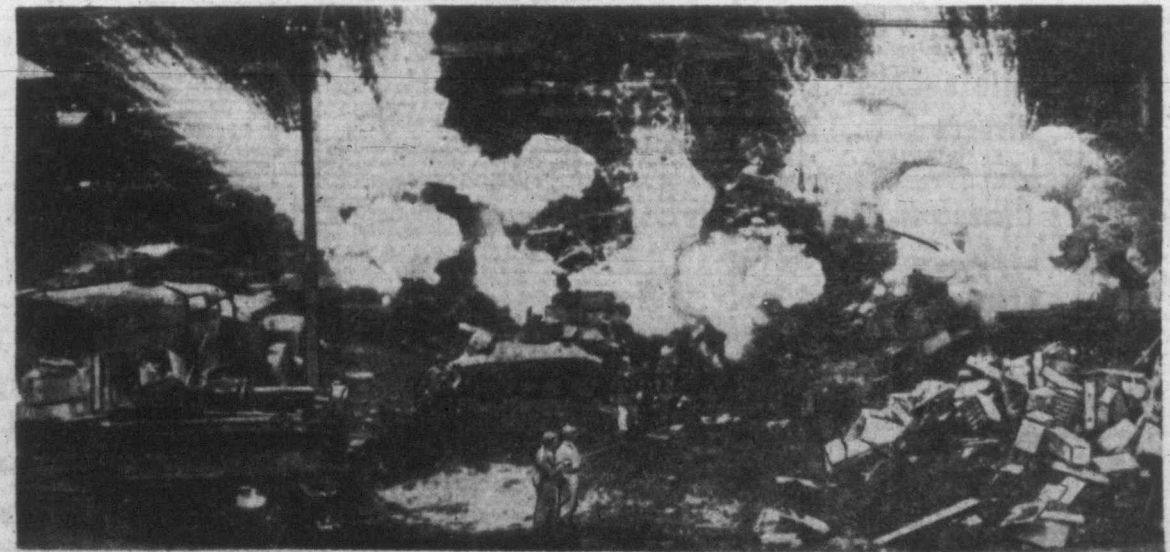

This was the first time a high Soviet official had suggested that the United States and Great Britain and Canada share their practical knowledge of atomic energy as a means of warfare.

Mr. Molotov apparently had been designated to make the tra-

Girl In Hosnital After Bed Fire

Vera Benner, 327 Quebec Street, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital at 6:10 this morning, overcome by smoke from her burning bed which, firemen said, she apparently had set afire while smoking.

Firemen who answered the call to her apartment found she had been removed from the room, unconscious, by another tenant in the house, Frank Whitaker.

Demolition charges are touched off by infantryman of the U.S. 8th Army to smash surrendered military equipment on the Kwanto plain near Fuchinobe, Japan. The equipment destroyed included field pieces, cannon, personnel carriers, tanks and small arms.

Death Sentence For Youth of 20

CALGARY (CP)—Twenty-year-old Lawrence Ross Barrs of Bowness was sentenced to be hanged March 20 when he was found guilty Monday afternoon of the Valentine Day murder of Frank Bishop Thomas, Bowness.

The youth, when he was ordered to stand up in the prisoner's box in which he had sat for 13 days, uttered no sound and there was no change in the impassive expression he had shown since the murder charge was first read to him.

There will be an appeal, said defence counsel C. E. Smith, who, with his brother, A. L. Smith, M.P., defended Barrs.

Drink Bill Higher

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians drank more spirits, beer and wine in the year ended March 31, 1945, than in the previous fiscal year, figures tabled Monday in the Commons show.

Provided for A. M. Nicholson, C.C.F., MacKenzie, Sask., the gallonage figures show:

Year ending March 31, 1944, spirits 3,443,716; beer, 90,709,847; wine, 3,598,946.

Year ending March 31, 1945, spirits, 3,719,918; beer, 110,223,815; wine, 3,712,456.

B.C. First Province In Canada To Pass 9th Victory Loan Quota

OTTAWA (CP)—National total in Canada's 9th Victory Loan for a minimum of $1,500,000,000 hit $1,199,296,000 today as the British Columbia-Yukon unit became the first in the Dominion to go over the top on sales to individuals in the three-week drive which will end next Saturday.

The B.C.-Yukon committee reported sales to individuals, including the armed forces, had reached $74,021,250 against an original target of $72,000,000 for 104 per cent.

War Finance Committee headquarters reported Monday's sales across Canada totaled $95,285,850 compared with $50,138,700 on the corresponding day of the 8th loan drive last spring. The $1,199,296,000 cumulative total compared with $961,156,050 at the corresponding stage of the last loan.

With their province covered with snow, Alberta canvassers kept sales well ahead of those of the 8th loan. To date Albertans have purchased $31,233,600 of the $40,000,000 general canvass objective for 77.5 per cent, and six more Alberta units are over the top.

One of the Alberta units, Foremost, has ignored its poor crops to zip past its quota and set a new one of $220,000. Average Foremost citizen's purchase so far was $450.

Blairmore in the Crows Nest Pass reached its objective of $125,000 early in the campaign, its second of $175,000 a few days later and now is shooting at $200,000. Its percentage of quota—145 per cent—is the highest in the province and its sales $100,000 ahead of those in the last loan.

Aubrey Bickford personally put Red Deer over the top. Stuck in a snowdrift four miles from town with 19 applications in his pocket, he finally abandoned his car and hiked into unit headquarters 15 minutes before closing time Monday.

Throughout Ontario 496 plants fly honor flags for exceeding their payroll savings objectives, 85 of them in the Toronto industrial section.

Total subscriptions for the province up to Monday night amounted to $519,322,950. Monday's total was $44,346,702. Ontario's objective is $679,350,000.

Urge Alberta Amend Its Garnishee Act

EDMONTON (CP)—The Edmonton Trades and Labor Council Monday night unanimously endorsed a resolution calling for an amendment to the garnishee act. The amendment would prohibit issuance of a garnishee till the merits of a creditor's claim had been adjudicated upon by the courts.

The resolution will be sent to the Alberta Federation of Labor for submission to the Alberta government. It will be included in a series of resolutions to come up at the federation's annual meeting at Calgary Nov. 19.

Another resolution passed by the Trades Council for submission to the federation calls for establishment of a committee to work out a labor code for Alberta which would establish the right of each worker to a job, and draft a program for the immediate employment of full and well-paid

Support for Canadian Flag Grows; Maple Leaf Popular

By Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

TORONTO—Two years ago a bare majority of the Canadian public wanted a distinctive Canadian flag. Today this majority has grown until nearly seven in every 10 adult Canadians favor the idea.

And here's a tip to those authorities whose job it is to design a flag, more people want the maple leaf somewhere on the flag than any other emblem.

These facts were obtained by a national opinion survey by the Gallup Poll, whose reporters in the cities, towns, hamlets and farms of Canada asked this question:

"Should Canada have a national flag on its own, or do you think we should continue to use the Union Jack?"

The same question was asked in July, 1943, so that it is possible to see just how opinion has swung in the past two years:

National flag 1943 Today
Union Jack 41% 51%
Undecided 14% 6%

Those who, in the current survey, voted in favor of a national flag, were then asked:

"Have you any ideas as to what should be on the flag?"

The maple leaf received, by long odds, the greatest number of mentions, with the occasional variation on this theme such as, "arrange nine maple leaves to represent the nine provinces."

The Union Jack, which may have been taken for granted by some of those interviewed, and therefore not mentioned specifically, received the second largest number of votes, with the beaver third. Tagging along were such suggestions as "nine stars to represent the nine provinces," the fleur-de-lis (more popular, of course, in Quebec, than elsewhere), a crown, and the coats of arms of the provinces.

That the broad question of a national flag has tended to become a political issue in the country is evidence by the differences in opinion shown by supporters of the three major political parties. Political groupings in the following table are based on the way the person being interviewed voted in the 1945 federal elections, and show that the idea of a national flag is much more popular among supporters of the Liberal Party than any other major group:

In the province of Quebec, 87 per cent of those interviewed voted for a national flag, compared with, for example, 59 per cent in Ontario.

Generally speaking, younger people support a distinctive flag more heartily than do older people, although in all age groups today, a majority is found in favor.

Ford Strike Situation Causes 5-Hour Debate In Parliament

OTTAWA (CP)—Criticism of the Ford Motor Company for its labor policy mingled with fervent hopes that violence might be avoided in the deadlocked strike at Windsor was voiced in the House of Commons Monday.

Labor Minister Mitchell left by air during the afternoon to make another of a long series of attempts at settlement and other members spent approximately five hours debating the issues. Criticism was aimed at the Ford Company by two ministers, Munitions Minister C. D. Howe and State Secretary D. J. Martin and, in winding up the discussion at the close, C.C.F. Leader Coldwell found it significant that not one member had a good word to say for the employer.

Concrete suggestions offered were:

1. From Lt.-Col. David Croll, Lib., Toronto-Spadina, and several C.C.F. speakers, that a controller be appointed to take over the plant;

2. From the C.C.F., that the

R.C.M.P. be withdrawn from Windsor;

WANT NEW CLAUSE

3. From the C.C.F., that an order-in-council be passed at once making a union security clause compulsory in labor agreements where the union wants it;

4. From Lt.-Col. Cecil Merritt, V.C., P.C., Vancouver-Burrard, that the question of union security be referred at once to the House committee on industrial relations.

Munitions Minister Howe said the situation had been a "tragedy of bad relations" between management and labor. This was not the first strike in the plant. There had been frequent work stoppages there.

"We also know that in the balance of the automobile industry there have been no labor interruptions," he added. "The same union has been operating throughout the industry."

"Therefore I think we must conclude that a great deal of the fault lies within the Ford plant itself. I think that the manage-

How to master the art of coffee making
There is nothing served at your table that brings as much enjoyment at such a low cost as a cup of good coffee. Yet how many of us devote the same careful attention to the brewing of that coffee as is given to the preparation of other foods? Making a cup of good coffee is really an art, but a simple art in which anyone can become adept. There are about five rules that have become second nature to me in brewing coffee at home. Perhaps it's their very simplicity that spells success... what would you say?

1. First and foremost, I select the proper grind for the type of coffee maker I expect to use in brewing the coffee. This, of course, eliminates any having to have vacuum-packed coffee reground. It has been my experience that having already-ground coffee put through the grinder a second time too often results in loss of flavor and aroma of the coffee. And the brew made from twice-ground coffee is usually cloudy and bitter. (Note: Many of you, I know, prefer whole-bean coffee which is ground right at the grocers at the time of purchase. A delicious brew can be obtained by this method if you remember that just one grinding is sufficient.)

2. I MEASURE both coffee and freshly boiling water accurately. I know it is important to use the same exact proportions every time coffee is made to be sure it will always taste the same. A good rule of thumb for coffee that is rich in flavor, as well as strength, is one heaping tablespoon (or two level tablespoons) of coffee to each 6-oz. cup, or 1/4 standard measuring cup, of freshly boiling water. However, personal taste does vary and, in the final analysis, you have to determine the strength you prefer and always use the same proportions.

3. I TIME my coffee-making carefully. The coffee should be in contact with the water for a definite length of time, depending on the type and capacity of your coffee-maker, as well as the strength of beverage desired. After the correct timing has been determined I stick to it; because I know that otherwise results will not be uniform.

4. I make it a point to SERVE coffee SOON after it is made. Because cool coffee cannot be reheated without injuring its flavor. (Besides, coffee that is oversteeped, or boiled, loses its aromatic substance.)

5. I CLEAN the coffee-maker daily. Coffee oils have a tendency to cling to the inner surfaces of utensils and eventually impart an undesirable flavor to the coffee brew.

And that's all there is to it. Over a period of time I have developed my own "trade secrets". I have found, for instance, that it is best to purchase coffee in an amount that can be used within a week. Because once the coffee is ground exposure to the air causes it to begin to lose freshness.

As for cleaning, besides the soapy washing each day and the scalding with hot water, I keep the coffee pot "sweet" by a more thorough cleaning at least twice a month. A baking soda bath is my method. Too, when the coffee-maker is put in the cupboard between meals, I leave the cover off. This gives it a good chance to air.

ment can be very severely criticized for permitting these relations to continue.

"A great company such as the Ford Company, one with a continental and world-wide reputation, a company which is a great factor in the industrial life of Canada, is I think to be severely condemned for not having created better union-management relations in their plant."

At the same time, Mr. Howe said that perhaps the local of the union which controlled the plant had not been "too well managed locally." There had been "constant friction" and usually both sides contributed to that continued friction.

Ford Strike Situation Causes 5-Hour Debate In Parliament

OTTAWA (CP)—Criticism of the Ford Motor Company for its labor policy mingled with fervent hopes that violence might be avoided in the deadlocked strike at Windsor was voiced in the House of Commons Monday.

Labor Minister Mitchell left by air during the afternoon to make another of a long series of attempts at settlement and other members spent approximately five hours debating the issues. Criticism was aimed at the Ford Company by two ministers, Munitions Minister C. D. Howe and State Secretary D. J. Martin and, in winding up the discussion at the close, C.C.F. Leader Coldwell found it significant that not one member had a good word to say for the employer.

Concrete suggestions offered were:

1. From Lt.-Col. David Croll, Lib., Toronto-Spadina, and several C.C.F. speakers, that a controller be appointed to take over the plant;

2. From the C.C.F., that the

R.C.M.P. be withdrawn from Windsor;

WANT NEW CLAUSE

3. From the C.C.F., that an order-in-council be passed at once making a union security clause compulsory in labor agreements where the union wants it;

4. From Lt.-Col. Cecil Merritt, V.C., P.C., Vancouver-Burrard, that the question of union security be referred at once to the House committee on industrial relations.

Munitions Minister Howe said the situation had been a "tragedy of bad relations" between management and labor. This was not the first strike in the plant. There had been frequent work stoppages there.

"We also know that in the balance of the automobile industry there have been no labor interruptions," he added. "The same union has been operating throughout the industry."

"Therefore I think we must conclude that a great deal of the fault lies within the Ford plant itself. I think that the manage-

WINNIPEG (CP)—A plan of national health insurance in Canada within two years was predicted here Monday by Hon. Ivan Schultz, Manitoba Minister of Health.

Speaking at the 24th annual convention of the Manitoba Hospital Association, he said the plan would insure general medical care of all people, irrespective of their financial capabilities. It would also provide a visiting nursing service.

Witnesses At Yamashita Trial Tell of Massacre of 6,000

MANILA (AP)—A Spanish priest and a Filipino laborer, testifying at the war criminal trial of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, recounted today the starvation, torture and massacre of 6,000 Filipino and Chinese civilians by Japanese troops before the fall of Manila last spring.

Rev. Belarmino Decelis of the Spanish Augustinian Order, said the Japanese jammed the 6,000 civilians into the ancient Church of St. Augustine, oldest building in Manila, last Feb. 5.

The men were thrown into the old dungeons which served the Spanish 100 years ago. Women and children, Father Decelis said, were kept without food in the church compound until they were so hungry they ate the grass and roots of the patio gardens.

The men were taken out Feb. 9 and forced to stand in the open streets under heavy artillery fire, then marched to Fort Santiago, where the burning and slayings took place.

Juan Paloda, the Filipino, testified he was one of 100 packed into a stone dungeon 20 feet square. He was stabbed later and left for dead in a pit with 500 other bodies.

Earlier, an 11-year-old girl,

Rosalinda Andoy, showed the military commission conducting the trial the scars of 38 bayonet wounds. She sobbed as she told of her mistreatment and the death of her family at the hands of the Japanese.

Her father was taken away to be murdered and her mother and her aunts were bayoneted before her eyes. Even while her mother told her to "be a good girl, dear," a Japanese used the woman for a live bayonet target, the frail girl testified.

Mistake Post Office For Garbage Dump

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—Postal workers here today hoped certain New Westminster residents would soon get over the idea of using the postoffice as a garbage disposal centre.

It seems that several neatly wrapped brown paper parcels were found on the tables in the lobby and subsequently turned into the lost and found department.

A few days later odors started an investigation which revealed the parcels contained potato peelings, old tin cans and other garbage refuse.

Location of Pitchblende Deposits Kept Secret

OTTAWA (CP)—Munitions Minister Howe said Monday afternoon in the Commons the government had agreed not to make public the location of pitchblende deposits in Canada.

He was answering Stanley Knowles, C.C.F., Winnipeg North Centre, who also asked for the names of the owners of the properties, surveys made and where reports of the surveys are available.

Mrs. Snell was allowed $13,500 and her nine-year-old son $3,500.

Fate is making China run the gauntlet.

Thus far efforts at reconciliation between the Chinese Communists and the national government have failed to disclose any avenue of escape from the horror of a civil war which in fact is already underway although there has been no formal declaration of hostilities. Hard fighting has developed along the vital rail communications of north China.

Bitterness has been added to the situation through the charge by the Chinese Reds that United States fighting forces have been in action against them. The Communist New China Daily News has blasted the claim that U.S. Lt. Gen. Wedemeyer's promise that his men would avoid participation in Chinese internal strife was "nothing but a lie."

Both Washington and Chungking have denied these allegations.

It looks as though the Chinese Communists are figuring on the conquest of northern China—where they are in greatest strength—and Manchuria.

Indications are that Red strategy contemplates the seizure of Manchuria, with its well developed war industries and other resources, for a powerful base from which to strike at the national forces. The Communists already hold large industrial and agricultural areas in the northern Chinese provinces of Shansi, Shensi, Shantung, Anhwei, Kiangsu and Hopei.

Manchuria is the key to the immediate future, because of its vast resources. That country possesses one of the richest soils in the world and it is heavily cultivated. It has great mineral wealth—coal, iron, gold and manganese—and petroleum and lumber are important products.

President Chiang Kai-shek had planned to land troops from the sea at Dairen and Port Arthur, the great Manchurian harbors, but according to information in Chungking his government has not been able to overcome Soviet objections to the use of these ports.

However, Chungking has taken encouragement from the report that Russian troops would begin to withdraw Nov. 10 from southwestern Manchuria along the Peiping-Mukden railway. It looks from here as though this might be of even greater benefit to the Chinese Reds. In any event, the Russian withdrawal will open up a strategic position.

Details of Italian Armistice Given to Public After 2 Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here are the 12 terms of the original Italian surrender signed 26 months and three days ago today:

1. Immediate cessation of all hostile activity by the Italian armed forces.

2. Italy will use its best endeavors to deny, to the Germans, facilities that might be used against the United Nations.

3. All prisoners or internees of the United Nations to be immediately turned over to the Allied commander-in-chief and none of these may now or at any time be evacuated to Germany.

SHIPS HANDED OVER

4. Immediate transfer of the Italian fleet and Italian aircraft to such points as may be designated by the Allied commander-in-chief, with details of disarmament to be prescribed by him.

5. Italian merchant shipping may be requisitioned by the Allied commander-in-chief to meet the needs of his military-naval program.

6. Immediate surrender of Corsica and of all Italian territory, both islands and mainland, to the Allies for such use as operational bases and other purposes as the Allies may see fit.

7. Immediate guarantee of the free use by the Allies of all airfields and naval ports in Italian territory, regardless of the rate of evacuation of the Italian territory by the German forces. These ports and fields to be protected by Italian armed forces until this function is taken over by the Allies.

8. Immediate withdrawal to Italy of Italian armed forces from all participation in the current war from whatever areas in which they now may be engaged.

9. Guarantee by the Italian government that if necessary it will employ all its available armed forces to insure prompt and exact compliance with all the provisions of this armistice.

WIDE MEASURES

10. The commander-in-chief of the Allied forces reserves to himself the right to take any measure which in his opinion may be necessary for the protection of the interests of the Allied forces for the prosecution of the war, and the Italian government binds itself to take such administrative or other action as the commander-in-chief may require, and in particular the commander-in-chief will establish Allied military government over such parts of Italian territory as he may deem necessary in the military interests of the Allied nations.

11. The commander-in-chief of the Allied forces will have a full right to impose measure of disarmament, demobilization and demilitarization.

12. Other conditions of a political, economic and financial nature with which Italy will be bound to comply will be transmitted at later date.

Would Ban Books With Illustrations Of Gun-Pointing

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons Monday gave first reading to a bill to amend the Criminal Code so it would be an offence "to print, publish or import, sell or distribute magazines on the cover of which appear pictures depicting the pointing by one person of an offensive weapon at another person."

The bill would be an addition to section 124 of the Criminal Code, which makes it an offence to point at persons any firearm or airgun without lawful excuse.

Sponsored by R. W. Gladstone, Lib., Wellington South, Ont., the bill would prevent publication or sale of magazines depicting hold-ups, robberies or other criminal acts.

"You are not going to do away with Superman, are you?" asked Karl Homuth, P.C., Waterloo South, Ont.

Mr. Gladstone said: "It is entirely wrong and detrimental to the morals of young boys that they should continue to be permitted to observe and study on magazine counter such pictures depicting shooting scenes which can only tend to educate them to think that there is nothing wrong in pointing a gun at a person."

It will be observed that my amendment relates to the gun-pointing pictures on magazine covers, which pictures usually are printed in flashy colors. I will be glad to have the assistance of an amendment that will cover also gun-pointing pictures on the inside pages of magazines. More than one newsstand dealer has told me the elimination of gun-pointing pictures would not affect adversely the sale of good detective stories."

The resolution expresses belief the government should adhere "to the principles laid down in the Atlantic Charter and other United Nations pronouncements looking to restoration of international trade by the removal of tariffs, quotas and other trade restrictions."

RUSSIA'S ANNIVERSARY

IN THE HISTORY OF THE LAST 28 years, it becomes relatively simple to read the success of the "experiment" which formally dates its origin from the Petrograd Revolution of Nov. 7, 1917. Through trials and obstructions, which only served to temper the steel of her determination, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics has taken her place among the leaders of the world. Never before has Russia attained such stature. And never before did she enjoy the popularity she gained in her final triumphant years as the mighty force which threw the legions of Nazism back from the east.

But with all her power, Russia remains an enigma. At a time when understanding could be instrumental in welding the United Nations into a continually cohesive force for the good of humanity, the U.S.S.R. appears to view the world scene as an international poker game and plays her cards close to her chest. In all fairness, it must be admitted Russia has had little encouragement, until recently, to lay her hand on the table. In the formative years of infancy, the U.S.S.R. doubtless had reason to look on the outside world with distrust. Nor have conditions been such since her maturity that she could establish friendship with other nations on a basis of absolute trust.

It requires no stretch of memory to recall the traditional picture of the Russian given to a hostile world at a time when the Soviets could have benefited most from outside assistance. He was a long-haired, unkempt figure, sly in face and brutal in form, who carried a bomb in his hand to throw at Capitalism wherever he found it. The "cordon sanitaire" policy was no figment of the imagination, and international diplomacy was seldom at a high level in its dealings with the Bolshevik. Those are records which later eulogy of a magnificent war record, praise for tremendous technological development, and general friendliness for an ally cannot entirely expunge.

But the fact remains that Russia, in her present position, cannot retire into isolationism because a previous age was unfriendly. By population and area it is impossible for her to divorce herself from the shrinking world of which she represents so much. And if that world is to enjoy the benefits of peace and general development, she cannot continue her secret role hidden behind walls of censorship which still make difficult a true valuation. And if she permits old suspicions to color her approach, to all outsiders, she is bound to create new suspicions elsewhere and lend fuel to the fire of discord which malevolent forces seek to build. Russia still has enemies whose self-interest benefits in direct ratio to the decline of Soviet popularity. But their number are immeasurably reduced from those which sought her destruction after Nov. 7, 1917.

STEPPING DOWN

IN SPITE OF THE EFFORTS OF PUBLIC and private business to hold the jobs and protect the seniority of staff members who left positions to serve in the forces, it is inevitable that some disappointment will attend the readjustment of service personnel returning to peacetime living. Many of the young men went from junior positions in civilian employment to prove their competency in the army, the navy or the air force and to claim incomes commensurate with the responsibilities they assumed. Apart from establishing their native ability, however, such young men have, with few exceptions, had little opportunity to equip themselves for correspondingly important work outside the services. In such cases, there has been an inevitable deflation when they returned to pick up the threads where they left them to go to war. As Gen. Crerar has said, those returning, in the main, are better men than when they left. But they still lack specialized experience in the trades and businesses to which they are coming back. It is not too much to hope that their greater maturity will put them in a position to overcome that handicap in a minimum of time. Nevertheless, the period required to bring them up to the point they would have reached had their careers been uninterrupted will call for patience on their part.

In some cases, men enlisted from the ranks of those who had no fixed occupation. Others came straight from school. They have no specific job to which to return. And while a number have decided which field of activity they wish to enter, they are subject to natural hurdles in gaining admission. For many, the acceptance of available work means a very material drop in income, even with the help they may receive through government assistance. But the point should be kept in mind that while a returned man may be offered a job at a wage far below that to which he was accustomed in the forces, that certainly should not be considered his life-time rate of remuneration. Nor need he accept the smaller pay if he can, by his own initiative, put himself into a position to gain more.

There is, of course, an obligation on the country, through public and private business, to see that employment opportunities are available for the men who answered the call to arms. With Canada crying for development, there should be no difficulty in providing jobs. They may not meet in all particulars the tailored plans of those returning. But certainly no ex-serviceman should be denied the right of gainful occupation. If work is made available, however, the rest is up to the individual, and unless Canadians foresake their natural self reliance, the solution to readjustment problems poses no insuperable obstacle.

EXCEED EXPECTATIONS

CITIZENS OF THIS COMMUNITY ARE entitled to more than an ordinary pat on the back for the magnificent manner in which they have responded to the appeal of Canada's 9th Victory Loan issue. Suffice it to say that at this stage of the campaign last spring the aggregate subscription for Greater Victoria stood at something like five and a half million dollars; the current drive has netted more than three million dollars in excess of that amount. And the quota of $8,400,000 was passed by $100,000 on the first day of this final week.

What is true of the response on the part of Canadians in this section of the country is true of practically every other substantial community all across the Dominion. This simply means that the vast majority of our people thoroughly believe in Canada—her future potentialities, her method of government, and her increasing stature among the nations of the world. The response to this latest loan, moreover, is especially noteworthy for the increase in purchases on the payroll system—in comparison, even, with the excellent showing of the 8th Victory Loan. Hitherto bond salesmen did not find it easy sailing in this regard; but this time the issue more or less sold itself. To understand the significance of the underlying moral of this fact requires no stretch of the imagination. It is a happy augury for the days ahead.

LABOR-MANAGEMENT PROBLEMS

MANAGEMENT AND LABOR MUST compose their difficulties between themselves because controversies "cannot be allowed to stop us" in the struggle to convert to peacetime production. With that exhortation as the keynote of his remarks, President Truman yesterday opened the labor-management conference in Washington, reminding the conferees, too, that the people of the United States do not like industrial strife retarding their prosperity—"especially after the solemn promise" of both groups to "co-operate with their government."

With but slight variation, largely of degree and method, the words of the President of the United States could be re-echoed by the leader of every nation which is plagued with strikes and threats to strike. Mr. Truman quite properly informed the conference he did not propose to attempt to "fix the blame" for the current conditions in his own country. He would not have overstated the facts if he had said blame attached to both employer and employee. Nor would he have erred in warning the participants at the conference that the great majority of the working force of all countries, the unorganized toilers without "lobbies" or "special pleaders" to argue their claims for consideration, are getting sick and tired of the intermittent spectacle of the irresistible force and the immovable object.

Surely there is sufficient intelligence among organized management and organized labor everywhere to find a formula for mutual agreement on the basic issues which seem to divide them. Conditions in several parts of Canada are literally shouting for a new form of approach—a demand from the public that Capital and Labor put their cards on the table face uppermost. Once the real difficulties are clearly exposed, and dealt with in a spirit of good will and give and take, most of them could be resolved satisfactorily.

MINISTERIAL CRITICISM

WHILE THE PUBLIC WOULD EXPECT labor and management opinion to be sharply divided on the United Automobile Workers' strike at the Ford Motor Company's Windsor plant, the condemnation of the company voiced by Reconstruction Minister C. D. Howe in the House of Commons last night projects a new element into the controversy.

Despite the general improvement in labor-management relations arising from co-operation on war production, there still remain sharp differences of opinion in the respective camps. Each claims its own adherents among the public. But when the minister of the crown most closely associated with production feels impelled to voice unequivocal criticism of the firm, Canadians will naturally want to know more than they have yet learned about the dispute. Mr. Howe left no grounds for doubt over his analysis of the situation when he said:

"A great company such as the Ford Company, one with a continental and world-wide reputation, a company which is a great factor in the industrial life of Canada, is I think to be severely condemned for not having created better union-management relations in this plant."

Though the minister noted that local union management might have contributed to the friction apparent in this major Canadian industry, his stricture nevertheless lies heavily on the company. Such statements from a man of senior cabinet rank are welcome for their candor and the manner in which they clarify the situation.

If cops are strangers who dare to treat you as an enemy and inferior, the town has become a city.

How to treat a crippled soldier? The same way you would treat him if he had been crippled in a car wreck.

Tariff On Diesels

By GRANT DEXTER

OTTAWA.

IN THE CONTROVERSY which has arisen over the tariff increases in the budget, references have been made to an increase in the duty on Diesel engines. In point of fact, the two are separate and distinct. The budget tariff increases were adopted by the cabinet and brought into the House of Commons as amendments to the Customs Tariff Act in the normal way by Hon. J. L. Isley, Minister of Finance.

The increase in the tariff on Diesel engines, however, was brought about by administrative act of the National Revenue Department, taken on Aug. 30, last.

As will be shown, the reasons for the administrative act are different from those which prompted the budget changes. Taken in combination, however, the two kinds of tariff increase raise the issue of protection in the broadest, most sweeping form and proclaim that the war period is passed and that the manufacturers of this country, regardless of overall trade policy and the commitments of the government with respect thereto, have resumed the struggle to keep imports out and to possess to the fullest attainable extent the home market.

THE RESUMPTION of the drive for protection, after six years of war during which scarcely a word has been said in Parliament on the tariff question, has been as swift as it has been surprising. The budget and the Diesel engine case, taken together, demonstrate that the drive for high tariff is now under way over the whole front of the national economy. Higher tariffs are being sought and obtained from the government itself by way of amendments to the Customs Tariff Act. They are being sought and obtained from the officials who administer the statute by means of administrative rulings.

The jurisdiction for higher tariffs in every case is the giving of work in factories. War industry appears to be determined to maintain the place which it achieved in the war years when imports virtually ceased. The prevailing mood, undoubtedly, is to "cash in" on the war before the channels of trade are reopened and imports from other countries become available.

ON THE ONE HAND, Canadian war industries are affirming their new strength and virility, their eagerness to serve the home market and their ability to provide plenty of jobs. On the other they concede their inability to compete with other countries by the very fact that they are demanding protection. "Look how lusty I am," they say, and, with the same breath, "but of course you must not expect me to stand up to those other fellows."

The budget reveals the extent of the drive for protection by the usual procedure of amendment to the Customs Tariff Act. The Diesel engine case illustrates the other approach.

TO UNDERSTAND this Diesel case, a reference to the Customs Tariff Act is essential. Three tariff items apply to Diesels. ITEM 440G PROVIDES that manufacturers of iron, brass, or other metal of a class or kind not made in Canada, when used for ships or vessels, shall be admitted duty free from all countries. The chief market for Diesels in Canada has been and continues to be the fishing industry. The engines are used on the fishing boats and are essential to efficient operation. Item 428C provides that Diesel engines, not otherwise provided for, shall be dutiable: preference, free; United States tariff agreement, 20 per cent; intermediate tariff, 25 per cent; general tariff, 30 per cent.

Item 440G provides that engines and parts thereof to be used in the propulsion of boats shall be dutiable: preference, free; intermediate (the rate applicable to the U.S.), 12 1/2 per cent; general, 15 per cent.

The rule in the National Revenue Department for many years has been that articles should be deemed for tariff purposes to be made in Canada when 10 per cent of the domestic market is produced at home.

PRIOR TO THE WAR, Diesel engines were ruled to be not made in Canada and therefore could be imported duty free from any country. Sources of imports were the United Kingdom, the United States, Norway and Sweden and some other continental countries.

The Canadian Diesel industry made strenuous but unsuccessful efforts to have this ruling reversed. In 1938, indeed, an appeal from the ruling was carried by the industry to the Tariff Board under part 11 of the Tariff Board Act. This part of the act set up the board as an appeal tribunal in tariff administration. The Tariff Board, after full inquiry, rejected the appeal.

FOR UNDERSTANDING

From the Halifax Herald

A Russian institute has been established in connection with Columbia University. It will be followed with other institutes devoted to the study of the British Commonwealth, Latin America, France and Germany.

The purpose of these institutes, as outlined by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, is to train a corps of United States teachers and administrators with special knowledge and understanding of the social, political and economic problems of peoples who are destined to play an important role in shaping the future course of world events.

The scheme, which originated with Dr. Butler, long noted as a worker for international goodwill, has promise of definite usefulness and might profitably be adopted by universities in Canada and elsewhere throughout the world.

Mutual understanding is essential to world peace.

WILL REMEMBER CANADA

I now find time and great pleasure in being able to thank a grand people for the way in which you have all received my comrades and myself into your country. The way in which you received us as the boat pulled into the docks was something that makes one feel very proud in having a nation in our Empire like Canada.

I am sure that when I get back to my own country I shall be able to tell all my people that my short stay in Canada was something that will remain in my memory for the rest of my life. I shall also say that if there are any of my countrymen that would like to know anything about Canada and its people, I shall be able to tell them that they could not go to a finer country, with good prospects in everything and a grand people. Once again thanking you.

OPERATIONS NOW ENDED

The operation of the Welcome Club Caravan, which has been stationed on the Causeway to give guidance to returning veterans for the last 18 months, have now ceased.

The group of ladies, convened by Mrs. A. D. M. Curry, have done an outstanding service in directing our own men in uniform, and members of the Allied forces to those most able to meet the requirements in each particular case. With the approach of winter weather, and satisfactory arrangements having been made for the disposal of the caravan, the directors of the Salvage Corps decided to discontinue the work having regard to the fact that there is a well-organized office open during business hours, fully equipped to carry on the work.

Copies of the magazine "Welcome" and helpful literature on hand have been transferred to the Citizens' Rehabilitation Council on the fourth floor of the post office building, being conducted by Col. Jeffery. The organization is carrying out the work with great zeal, and will prove of inestimable benefit to those seeking general information of a nature not directly connected with the Dominion government, Department of Veterans Affairs in the Belmont House.

I would like to point out to veterans engaged or about to be engaged in agriculture the following facts: The provincial government, Department of Agriculture, at the Parliament Buildings here, and the Dominion government, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, have numerous booklets dealing with every phase of fruit-growing, vegetable-growing, bulb-raising, control of insects and pests, fertilization, soil testing and plant propagation of every kind, free for the asking. Also the Dominion government experimental farm at Saanichton may be reached in person or by telephone and are at all times most anxious to give helpful information.

I wish to express my great admiration and thanks to the ladies who have so faithfully and earnestly given their services in all weathers at great personal inconvenience to the cause of the Welcome Club Caravan.

A LONG PULL

It seems to be a well established fact in nature that man's spell of life is only 100 years at most, then members of each generation must pass off the scene and take nothing with them, except the indestructible mind which has developed within them. But it is on this process of human life that the world depends for the continuance of its inhabited condition and progress. It is not so very important to the creation mind whether man exterminates himself or not, time goes on and there are millions of years ahead for a new order of humanity to develop where we leave off. Man is not necessary to God to carry on creation and recreation of life.

But from the prehistoric age when man had neither speech nor language and was classed among the animals, it has been a long pull up to the present state of civilization, with all its imperfections in knowledge or experience. Our governments and political leaders so often take a short and narrow view of things and concentrate their minds on expediency and the success of their own particular creeds or affiliations or policies, in forming platforms. Tricks and schemes to prevent the real wishes of the people from being known may indicate smart political strategy, but they are not honest efforts to be democratic.

There is too much of this in all parties and also in religions. Sometimes by lack of vision and sometimes by deliberate design men will work against nature and plan for things, which must ultimately have unfortunate results to later generations.

The law of environment and its effect on life is just as strong as the law of fire and water and the fact of "all men being equal" is just as true as "no two men are exactly alike," but to ignore these extremes and the effect of time on any changes desired, in spite of nature or environment, is to court disaster and tragedy.

For the rich to bring in slaves who are not good mixers because it will make them quickly richer and comfortable, is just as much against nature as for the C.C.F. to excuse their policy to flood Canada with unsuitable by stating that "all men are equal," in nature.

THE MINUTES

For the last few months, the eight-year-old has been an ardent attendant at weekly meetings of the Mission Band. Now her enthusiasm has brought her distinction. This week she became secretary of the group and the new honors weigh heavily upon her.

At eight, the technicalities of organization are a little bewildering. She will, she has explained, need a watch. Could she borrow her mother's? But it appears that mother's is a very questionable mercurial of eight-year-old hands. And as the parent has pointed out, there must be a clock in the house where Mission Band meets.

The little girl is only partly satisfied. In her new position of responsibility she should have her own timepiece. It appears the secretary has to take down the minutes at Mission Band. And how can she do that without a watch?

Byrne Sanders Warns Inflation Danger Still Acute

"Because surveys show that half the people of Canada do not realize it, the greatest period of danger in the anti-inflation period lies ahead," said Byrne Hope Sanders, head of Consumer Branch, W.P.T.B., Ottawa, addressing the Women's Canadian Club Monday afternoon at the Empress Hotel.

She pointed out that history repeats itself. After the Napoleonic war and the civil war, the worst periods of inflation occurred. From Armistice Day until July, 1920, after the First World War, the prices of food doubled, the cost of clothing trebled, where only 10 per cent of the national income had been turned into war.

"In this war where 40 to 50 per cent has been geared to war," she warned, "the possibilities for sprawling inflation and then crashing deflation is infinitely greater."

Some of the reasons she gave for the inflationary danger were a continued shortage in many lines because Canada must rely on other countries for many necessities, the time it takes to convert from war to peace, the impact of the buying needs of thousands of men and women of the armed services, the tremendous pent-up consumer demand, plus a tremendous backlog of spending power in victory bonds and wartime savings, coupled with the human instinct to go on a spending spree.

WOMEN CAN HELP
"Here is a challenge to Canadian women," she said, "to be the great stabilizing force in the transition period between war and peace."

"Stand firm in a world of shifting opinions and wild rumors," she urged. "Determine to finish the job. Co-operate with the war measures maintained for your protection until told they are no longer necessary. Get the facts and halt wild rumors. Conserve. Buy only what is needed. Co-operate in every practical way that is necessary."

"Canadian women," she continued, "are in the best position of any women in the world to become vital factors in building the peace in their country. They have had experience in being essential partners in the great national economic program. They have learned to harness their vast and sprawling organizations into compact units for active participation in making policy. Their leaders have been getting practical training in economics. They have learned how to get the facts on which to base their recommendations, how to present their opinions most effectively. Most important of all, they have learned to follow up their recommendations and to press for action—or for a satisfactory answer as to why action cannot be taken."

STRENGTH IN YOUTH
She reminded her audience of the leadership developed among Canada's younger women during the war and suggested this tremendous strength must not be allowed to slip back into peace-time disinterest. Older women must relinquish some of their responsibilities to these young leaders, she said, in full knowledge they will work differently but in full confidence they will bring new strength and vision to the work.

"Look what we accomplished during the war," she concluded. "Surely we can concentrate as hard, work as hard, unite as vigorously for peace."

Mrs. A. J. Campbell, president of the Canadian Women's Club, was the chairman. Mrs. Paul Smith, chairman of the Women's Regional Advisory Council, introduced Miss Sanders. Miss Louise Leask, accompanied by Mrs. W. B. Millburn, gave vocal solos.

On the platform were the two students who received Women's Canadian Club bursaries this year, Miss Marjorie Mather and Mr. Wallace Chung, honor students with over 90 per cent in matriculation examinations, now in their first year at college. Miss Mather is studying to become a teacher and Mr. Chung is taking a medical course.

Junior League Meeting

Miss Gwenn Mann and Miss Joan Saul were introduced as new members at Monday evening's meeting of the Solarium Junior League, Mrs. L. F. Dunn presiding.

Final arrangements were made for the Farmerettes' Box Social to be held this evening in the lower ballroom of the Crystal Garden. A report was given on the Polka Dot party on the evenings of Nov. 26 and 27 at the Sirocco, which will feature musical shows, bingo and dancing.

Miss Kathy Malloy reported on the progress of the pantomime, "Jack and the Beanstalk" to be held Dec. 14 and 15 at the Royal Victoria Theatre.

Family Reunion Here

BYRNE HOPE SANDERS AND HER PARENTS, MR. AND MRS. HARRY SANDERS

When Byrne Hope Sanders reached Victoria in her Dominion-wide tour of consumer branches of the Wartime Price and Trade Board, it was like coming home for her mother and father, Mr.

and Mrs. Harry Sanders and her sister and brother-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Carney with their family live here. Mr. and Mrs. Sanders, formerly of Toronto, came to Victoria to make their home just 18 months ago. Dr.

Personal Notes

Mrs. W. C. Woodward and Miss Ruth McLean were among the guests when Mrs. R. S. Palmer entertained at luncheon Monday at her York Place home. Wednesday evening Lieutenant Governor Woodward will attend a dinner at the Empress Hotel of the Chinese Freemasons, and on Friday evening will dine with the No. 6 Victoria company of the Fourandex at Victoria Golf Club.

Mrs. P. Winsby and small son, Peter, of Victoria are visiting Ganges Harbor for a month, where they are guests at Harbor House.

BETROTHAL, AN OPTION

A betrothal should be looked upon in the light of man and woman merely taking an option on each other's hearts and hands. They should regard it as an interlude between the hour when they first struck each other's fancies and the time when they are called upon to sign marriage contract, which they should employ in trying to find out what sort of bargain they are thinking of making and whether they want to take it, or leave it.

And inasmuch as marriage is a much more serious proposition for a woman than it is for a man, it is particularly important that every girl should devote this interval to putting her prospective bridegroom through a questionnaire in order to ascertain what kind of a husband he is likely to make.

FAIL TO ASK QUESTIONS

But, curiously enough, they don't. They marry without making a single inquiry into the vital matters on which their own happiness is going to depend. Often a girl will not even ask her boy friend what kind of a job he has, and if he will feed her on filet mignon or expect her to live on bread and cheese and kisses. The burden of her song is "Do you love me? Will you always love me? Am I the first and only one?"

Now it is highly desirable for an engaged girl to extort all the passionate vows of devotion that she can get out of a man before marriage, because husbands are likely to be skimpy on love-making after marriage. But what, in reality, she should be asking him is not the state of his affections, but what her status as a wife would be.

"Before I sign on the dotted line, I would like to know whether you will regard me as a lady love, or just a useful household gadget? Will you still take an interest in holding my hand, or will you expect me to get calluses on it cooking and scrubbing to make you comfortable without ever getting even so much as a 'thank you' for it?"

TERRIBLE COMPANION

Also, I would like to know whether, if I marry you, I will acquire a fireside companion, or whether I will spend my evenings by my lonesome watching the baby sleep, while you are playing poker with the boys downtown or relaxing in a night club? Also, I would like to have your views on the safe side of the altar, upon the financial problem. Will you expect me to give up a mahogany desk and a fat pay envelope for an 18-hour-a-day job in domestic service, and then be grateful to you for supporting me? Or will you think the laborer is worthy of his hire, even if she is married to you?

"And what are your ideas concerning making the wife job attractive, or do you consider that just being married to you is all the fun that any woman could reasonably ask for? Will you treat me with as much politeness as you do your secretary? Will you try to be as interesting a companion to me as you are to the woman who is your dinner partner at a party? Will you make as great an effort to keep me in love with you as you have to win me?"

"There are the things I would like to know about you before I take up my option on you."

Novel Auction Sale At Yacht Club

Beauty Shop Clients Urged to Keep Dates

Women who make appointments for hair-dos, facials, manicures and all the other beauty aids to be found in an up-to-date beauty salon are not always punctual in keeping them. In fact, they are downright forgetful, according to members of the Hairdressers' Association of British Columbia meeting in Vancouver.

Reports of a survey in British Columbia revealed that while many patrons are extremely thoughtful in always notifying the beauty shop, many others fail to do so and create not only serious loss, but prevent other patrons from having work done when appointments are not kept.

Overseas League Hears Facts About Britain

"Facts and Fiction About Britain and the Empire" was the subject to the address given by Sir Robert Holland at Monday's meeting of the Overseas League.

"One of the most useful instruments in explaining America to Britain is the G.I. Joe in Britain," Sir Robert said, and stressed the need for British good will ambassadors to the United States to debunk many unfounded charges of reproach made against England and the government in India.

Sir Robert claimed Americans still had a "hangover" from the George III incident, especially among youth. He said ignorance fostered most of the ill-feeling and anti-British propaganda.

The British Information Service in New York was explained by the speaker, who was formerly connected with the department on India. He praised American pamphlets issued to United States troops overseas, and said similar books could be issued to civilians with equally valuable results.

Glasses Worst Germ Carriers Survey In Cafes Shows

Results of a survey that had been conducted in 16 Victoria restaurants to determine the efficiency of the technique employed in dishwashing and the effectiveness of chemical sterilizing agents were described by Dr. R. Felton, medical health officer, at a meeting of the Restaurant Keepers' Association in the Empress Hotel Monday evening.

At the same time he spoke on the T.B. survey that is being conducted in city food handling establishments among their employees and which will be extended to cover every adult citizen of the Greater Victoria area as soon as more X-ray equipment is available.

The survey has been conducted over a period of two months, and in each case the restaurant tested again after a period of several weeks. In almost every instance the drop in bacteria content on cups, glasses, spoons and forks is remarkable.

For example, in one restaurant the first count showed 350 bacteria colonies on a cup, 100 on the glasses, 150 on the spoons and more than 500 on the forks during the first test. On being informed, the restaurant apparently mended its dishwashing methods for the count dropped to two on cups, three on glasses, none on spoons, but the count on forks remained at 400.

DANGEROUS COUNT

Glasses seem to be the worst bacteria carriers, with five restaurants showing a bacteria count of more than 100, which is considered dangerous. Cups and spoons were bad in four restaurants and forks in only one.

It was found, Dr. Felton reported, that machine-washed dishes show exceptionally low residual bacteria count, but that hand washing, with proper washing and rinsing by immersion with a proper sanitizing agent can also attain good results.

The survey was carried on by the city health department, under E. Gropp, sanitary inspector, in co-operation with C. Stonehouse, chief sanitarian, Provincial Board of Health, and Dr. R. G. D. McNeely, director of the Jubilee Hospital laboratory.

"The responsibility of providing the customer with hygienically clean glassware and dishes rests squarely with the management," Dr. Felton declared. "Knowing that dishes can look reasonably clean and yet be contaminated with bacteria, it is the responsibility of the eating house establishment to safeguard the public health with sanitized dishes."

READILY TRANSMITTED

Dr. Felton pointed out that communicable diseases may be readily transmitted from one customer to another by multi-service eating utensils which have not been properly cleaned and subjected to an approved bacterial process after each using.

Six of the 16 restaurants tested showed less than the 100 bacteria count on all utensils on both testings. Another three improved their technique after the first test, and satisfactory readings were obtained on the second reading. Four of the remaining five improved materially, only one remained about the same.

People May Have to Decide Whether Or Not They Want a Senate; Fight Is On

(Note — Canada's Senate is rumbling. Two senators last week debated the future of this body and the Times Ottawa correspondent, Norman MacLeod, in a special story, intimated that the Senate is really worked up over the bill to give the M.P.'s an extra $2,000 for "expenses," free of income tax. In the discussions in the Senate one of the leading speakers will be Senator G. G. McGeer of Vancouver, who was this year appointed to the Upper House. Senator McGeer has written the following pertinent article for the Victoria Times.)

By SENATOR G. G. McGEER

Peace may have come to our war torn world, but there are signs now that the peaceful attitude that has prevailed in Ottawa between the Commons and the Senate may be smashed asunder. In the three score and twelve years that have passed since the Canadian House of Commons and the Canadian Senate were born, these two houses, which constitute the Parliament of Canada, have gotten along fairly well together. This has been happily so, notwithstanding the fact that the Senate has always asserted its authority as the Upper House over the Commons as the Lower House.

The Senate has exercised its powers to stop the Commons from spending money. They have done this on a great many occasions, the most notable being when the Senate refused to pass the bill of the Commons in 1913 providing for the grant of $35,000,000 to the imperial government to aid in increasing the strength of the British navy.

They have made recommendations to the Commons to spend money which the government has acted upon, the outstanding example of this action originating in the recommendation of the Senate being found in the establishment of the Tourist Travel Bureau. In regard to this matter the Senate conducted an investigation, reported on the tremendous possibilities of Canadian tourist trade and recommended that a travel bureau be set up with a substantial appropriation to finance its activities. This recommendation was accepted, the travel bureau was inaugurated, and since then the appropriations for the travel bureau have amounted to something over $1,000,000. The returns from the Canadian tourist trade in the same period have been over $1,300,000.

REFUSED B.N.A.A. AMENDMENT

In 1936, when the Commons proposed to amend the constitution, namely, the British North America Act, to give to the provinces certain powers to levy indirect taxation, the Senate refused to accept the proposed amendment and the matter was dropped.

In 1925, when the Commons passed the first Old Age Pensions Bill, the Senate offered several amendments. The Senate and Commons, unable to agree, finally came to a deadlock and the Pensions Bill was, for the time being, killed. In 1926, however, the Mackenzie King administration submitted the Pensions Bill to the electorate and Mr. King promised that, if he were elected, the same old Pensions Bill would be passed by the new Commons as a bill carrying with it not only the sanction of the Commons, but the mandate of the Canadian electorate.

Mr. King won the election and the Pensions Bill, which the Senate had refused to accept, was re-enacted. The Senate unanimously accepted the mandate of the people and the Old Age Pension Act became one of the laws of the land.

The Senate, under its powers to amend any and all legislation coming to it from the Commons, including money bills, has decreased and increased taxation and has extended taxation to apply beyond the limits proposed by the Commons.

With the exception of initiating bills providing for the appropriation of public funds and the levying of taxation, the Senate has unlimited powers and it has unhesitatingly exercised them whenever it felt it in the public interest to do so. And the Commons knows that it will so act in the future. Already a Senate committee is being set up to review our whole Canadian tax structure.

MAN OF THE PEOPLE

The Senate of Canada differs very greatly from the House of Lords, notwithstanding general opinion to the contrary. The House of Lords was maintained in the British Parliament simply to protect the rights of the Crown and the rights of the owners of property. Formerly the Lords were drawn exclusively from the aristocracy of the British Isles. In later years the advent of the commoner in the House of Lords was an innovation. From the very beginning the membership of the Canadian Senate was comprised of men of the people and, as Sir John A. Macdonald put it in the Confederation Debates, "a member of the Senate was just as much a man of the people the day after he entered the Senate as he was the day before."

According to Sir John A. Macdonald, the Senate was responsible for the protection of the rights of the masses as well as the privileges of the classes. In recent years Hon. Arthur Meighen declared that it was the duty of the Senate to look after the welfare of the workers of the nation, especially the humblest of the workers.

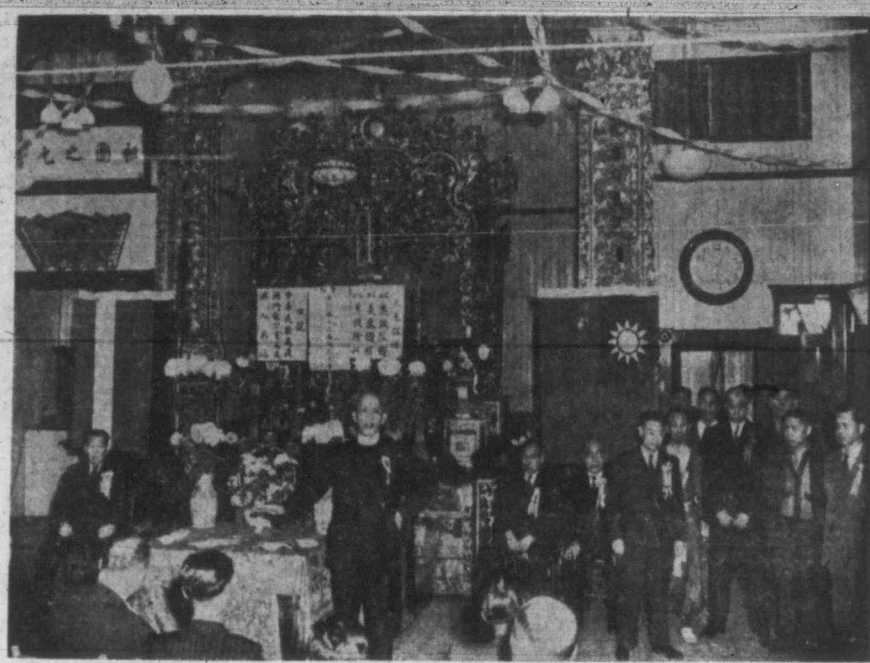

The character of the personnel of our Canadian Senate is not the only feature in which it differs from the House of Lords. At the time of Confederation Canada consisted of Upper Canada, now Ontario, Lower Canada, now Quebec, and the Lower Provinces, comprising New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia.

SENATE MEMBERSHIP

During the course of the pre-Confederation debates, in which the Confederation resolutions were formed, it was agreed that Canada would be divided into three territorial divisions, Upper and Lower Canada and the Lower Provinces. The representatives of Lower Canada and the Lower Provinces agreed to a principle of representation according to population would be accepted for the Commons, but for the Upper House, the Legislative Council as it was then called, now our Senate, they insisted that the representation of each of the three territories should be equal, irrespective of population, and it was agreed that there should be 24 Senators for Ontario, 24 for Quebec, and 24 for the Lower Provinces. When the Western Provinces came in it was agreed that a further territory of Western Canada should be added with 24 senatorial representatives.

The Senate, therefore, is a purely Canadian institution, in which the primary duty of a Senator from the Maritime provinces is that of protecting the Maritimes against the increasing majority in the other parts of the Dominion. The 24 Senators from the Maritimes sit in the Senate with the primary duty not only of protecting the Maritimes and their rights, but in seeing to it that both the quantity and quality of advantages which flows from the federal Parliament shall be kept within reasonable balance so that that section of Canada with its small population may enjoy proportionately at least the equivalent of any aid or assistance which the Dominion Parliament extends to any other section of Canada. The same applies to the Senators from Quebec, who are there to protect the province in its enjoyment of the language, law, municipal customs, religion and ways of life of the French Canadian people, and the same, of course, applies to the 24 Senators who represent Ontario and the 24 who represent western Canada.

Chinese Freemasons of Canada Meet Here

Lin Do Yuen, Victoria Chinese, is shown above as he addresses the opening session of the biennial convention of the Grand Lodge of Chinese Free Masons Society of Canada which opened in the Victoria Chinese Free Masons Hall on Fisguard Street Sunday. The opening session was attended by 60 delegates from all parts of Canada and plenary sessions started Monday when matters of policy were discussed. A lion dance was held Sunday on Fisguard Street to raise funds for relief work in China.

In addition to these exceptional responsibilities, the Senate has the power to review and amend all legislation coming to it from the Commons. It is in truth the Upper House of our Parliament.

INACTIVE IN WAR

During the war the Senate, of course, could not be active. The crises which continuously appeared in this last great martyrdom of men were too serious to permit of internal conflict. The Senate gave approval and lent whatever assistance it could and in that way made its best contribution to Canada's great war effort.

But now the war is over! The propensity of centralized power in Ottawa to ignore the rights of the provinces and the territorial divisions of the nation is already appearing. It is upon the Senate that the outlying territories and provinces must depend. It is the Senate and the Senate alone that can guard against the growing tendency of bureaucracy and the easy method of ruling by decrees and order-in-council. It is the Senate and the Senate alone that can bring government of the people by the people for the people back to the people of Canada.

The government, backed by the Commons, has fired the first shot. They propose to increase the indemnity of the Commons and the members of government, but the Senate has been left out. With the great majority of the Senators it is not a matter of dollars and cents. It is something far more important than that. It is the lowering of the position of the Senate to something below that of the House of Commons.

Many of the Senators feel, and some of them have stated on the floor, that this is not the time to increase the sessional indemnity of the members of the Commons and the government. They feel that, with the heavy burden of taxation being laid upon the workers of the country, in fact on all who receive anything more than $600 a year, any increase in the Commons' indemnity should be delayed until the workers' burden of taxation has been removed. Today we are taxing clerks and stenographers, nurses and school teachers, and every type of wage earner. We are taxing them quite irrespective of whether or not they are getting a wage that permits them to enjoy a decent standard of Canadian living.

Well, the government and the Commons have made the attack and, if a battle comes, the people of Canada will at least get an opportunity of knowing what its Senate proposes to do during the coming period of reconstruction. The time may be close at hand when the people of Canada will have to decide whether or not they want a Canadian Senate. In the final decision it is the mandate of the people that will decide the issue. But the battle will be a good one.

Top Salesman

Capt. J. M. Tierney, formerly of the P.P.C.L.I., is top salesman for the 9th Victory Loan, having achieved 180.9 per cent of the quota by the end of the second week, canvassing South Victoria. Capt. Tierney spent five years in the army, four of them overseas as commanding officer of the 1st Can. Special B.A.S.R.A., attached to the British 8th Army. Capt. Tierney could say little about his overseas work other than that it was "organized - deception" against the enemy both preceding and following invasions and important advances. He, like many other returned servicemen, is working wholeheartedly for the Victory Loan, believing that it will aid in the rehabilitation of veterans.

Second salesman in the loan is also a return veteran, Vernon Ridgway, who was with the Cameron Highlanders of Winnipeg. Mr. Ridgway helped with the first loan, then enlisted in the army, served overseas, was severely wounded, and is now back on the job for the 9th Loan with his arm still in a cast. He has 168.7 per cent of objective, and is canvassing Esquimalt.

Independent grocers in the Victoria district have received an invitation from W. C. Brown, provincial chairman, Grocers' Division, Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, to attend a meeting in the Empress Hotel, tomorrow evening at 8 p.m. Allison, secretary-manager of the Consolidated Grocers, who has just returned from attending a national food conference in Niagara Falls, will submit a proposed plan whereby grocers and wholesale suppliers will work closer together to eliminate all possible needless overhead.

10 Cases On List At Victoria Assizes

First of 10 cases listed for trial before Mr. Justice J. M. Coady at the Fall Assizes, that of Gordon Allen McLaughlin, charged with breaking and entering the Safeway Store at 301 Menzies Street, with intent to steal, June 3 of this year, commenced today.

A plea of not guilty was made by the accused, who was represented by Joseph McKenna. Crown prosecutor was R. D. Harvey, K.C.

The Assizes opened with selection and swearing in of the 12-man jury as follows: Clement Herbert Ridley, foreman; George Mowatt Scott, Thomas Ransom, John James Tippet, Arthur Edmonds, William Norman Clark, Leonard Frank Lancaster, James Kenhelm Ellis, Robert Tait, George Henry Parrell, Richard William Veness and Frederick James Nobbs.

Of 10 applications to be excused from serving on the jury, Mr. Justice Coady permitted seven to leave the court room. The three others were requested to renew their applications in a week's time if they felt it was urgently required that they return to their employment.

Major case of the Assizes, the charge against Charles Kinney of murdering Miss Phyllis Stroud, is tentatively scheduled to open Nov. 19.

Housing Improvement Seen By Year's End

Improvement in Victoria's housing situation is promised by the end of the year with the completion of five of the Topaz army huts apartments expected within the next week or 10 days and the completion of the first 10 of the Wartime Houses being built for veterans hoped for by the middle of December.

Ald. T. W. Hawkins, chairman of the housing committee, said that to date approximately 40 applications have been received for occupancy of the 37 apartments being built at the Topaz Avenue army camp. Of these only a very few are from men with long service overseas, who will be given priority, he said.

Ald. Ed. Williams, manager of Victoria Housing Ltd., said that if the weather keeps good there is every possibility that 10 of the first 150 houses will be finished by the middle of December and ready for occupancy. After that he expects to finish two or three a week.

Tom Cook, manager of the Rio Theatre, reported to city police Monday the theatre office had been entered Detective H. Jarvis investigated and found a rear door had been opened, the office door forced and smashed and all the bolts and the dial removed from the front of the safe. The safe, however, apparently had not been opened. About $2 worth of stamps was missing.

By PETE SALLAWAY

WENATCHEE and Bremerton today hold franchises in the Western International Baseball League through a lot of hard work by Joe Brownlow, Wenatchee newspaperman, and some pretty smart lobbying by Yahi Separovich, business manager and part owner of the Sacramento club in the Pacific Coast League. For two weeks previous to the annual meeting of the W.I.L. here last week-end, Brownlow scouted the Pacific northwest, visiting every town of any size in an effort to find somebody willing to back a club in the pro circuit. He knew Wenatchee was solid with Sacramento, willing to operate in the apple city, but it was a case of digging up another backer as the league directors would never go for a seven-club circuit.

When the league directors went into session here, Wenatchee and Bremerton made their applications for franchises. Then the fun started. The Sacramento proposition for Wenatchee met with the approval of the league but such was not the case with Bremerton. W. W. Shepherd had shown he could provide sufficient finances to support a team but the league wanted more than that. He had no guarantee of a park and could not provide sufficient evidence of good faith that he would not start the season and then fall by the wayside if the going got a little tough. That put Wenatchee right behind the eight ball. Bremerton had to get in for them to be granted membership in the league. Brownlow and Shepherd got busy on the telephone and contacted the mayor of Bremerton and he came through with support of Shepherd while Separovich got hold of the Bremerton chief of police, who happened to be in Victoria for attendance at the police ball Friday evening, and he went before the meeting to lend support to the Bremerton application for a franchise. Then it was a question of the trio sitting it out. It meant an eight-hour wait as it took just that much time for the directors to reach a decision in their favor.

THIS FELLOW Separovich has certainly established himself in Sacramento. Just 11 years ago he was a welder and today he and his partner have $50,000 tied up in the Coast League ball club and he holds the job of business manager while his partner looks after two food markets, three liquor stores, a night club and a cocktail bar. In two seasons the Sacramento club has built up its attendance from 31,000 three years ago to 245,000 last season. Yahi told me the Solons have 103 ball players on their roster and for that reason alone were anxious to move into Wenatchee. "However, we will be in a position to help all the teams in the W.I.L.," Separovich stated. "After we get the Solons and our Wenatchee club set we will release the remainder of our players and they will be available to other teams in the Western International."

CHATTING to the various baseball leaders here for the meeting, I learned they are all confident pro baseball will be a successful promotion in this city. Chaps like Bill Klepper of Portland and Bob Brown of Vancouver, who have been associated with the game so many years they hate to tell the exact number, have every confidence in this city as a franchise holder. They feel it is just a question of the Victoria club passing up no bets in gaining the support of the public.

Navy Quits Rugby Loop

Three Battles Monday

Victoria English rugby fans who troop out to Macdonald Park Monday, Nov. 12, will be treated to a three-hour action show when six local union fifties clash on the two pitches of the James Bay enclosure starting at 1:30.

Two senior league battles are carded on the triple-decker program and the expectation is that really tough battles will be the order of the afternoon as these teams shoot for a bettering of positions in the standings.

The show will open at 1:30 with Oak Bay Wanderers and Victoria College seniors in action. This will be followed an hour later with Naval College and Victoria College intermediates meeting. Final attraction will start at 3 when the present two top teams of the senior circuit, J.B.A.A. and Naval College, clash.

Leadership in the Barnard Cup race will hinge on the outcome of the Bays-Naval College struggle. Today finds the Bays riding the premier slot with a quartette of points and navy collegians panting along right at their heels with a point less. This will be the first meeting of this pair.

Alcos, Chinese Register Wins In Cage Games

Driving through in the final quarter, Alcos continued their win streak in the intermediate A division of the city cage league last night, defeating Victoria College 51 to 42. Chinese Students won from H.M.C.S. Uganda 42 to 36 in the senior B men's division while the Junior Hot Shots, playing with a 30-point spot, won from the Rookies 57 to 39.

After holding the smooth Alcos to a one-point lead in the first half and four points at the three-quarter mark, the collegians faded in the final 10 minutes. Vince Clarkson was the big scoring noise for the Alcos with 15 points. Hugh and Jack McDonald paced the college with 14 and 12 points, respectively. Building up a comfortable lead during the first three quarters, Chinese Students were able to hold off the closing drive of the Uganda hoopers in a rugged clash. Duncan Lee was high scorer for the Chinese with 16 points while Baydack once again topped the bluejackets with 11.

Stukus Can Still Top Grid Scorers
TORONTO (CP) — With the International Football League into its playoff stage, Toronto Indians' Annis Stukus still had one more chance to pass Royal Copeland and earn the unique distinction of leading all eastern Canada individual scorers without having counted a touchdown.

A Canadian Press compilation after week-end games showed the Ontario Rugby Union half-back in second place with 38 points. Still first with two points more was Copeland, whose opportunity to better his total ended when Toronto Argonauts finished their regular schedule.

Annis, top scorer in his own league, added four points as Indians beat Windsor Rockets 14 to 2 Friday night, to bring his count to eight field goals, as many converts and six singles. He has a final chance to go into the lead when Indians met Toronto Balmy Beach in their last scheduled match.

Lumley Tops N.H.L. Goalies

Great Record to Date

MONTREAL (CP) — National Hockey League statistics, released today, showed Toe Blake, left wing and captain of Montreal Canadiens, leading the individual scoring parade with six goals and two assists piled up in the four games played by the Frenchmen this season. Blake's six goals is tops in that department.

A three-way tie for second place has Max Bentley of Chicago Black Hawks, and Bill Cowley of Boston Bruins with five goals and one assist each, and Alex Kaleta of Chicago with two goals and four assists. Kaleta's four assists makes him the leading playmaker to date.

Maurice Richard of Montreal, with three goals and two assists, and Bill Mosienko of Chicago and Elmer Lach of Montreal with two goals and three assists make up a three-way tie for third place.

Among the goalkeepers, Harry Lumley of Detroit Red Wings is tops with only four goals against him in three games for an average of 1.333. Lumley also holds the league's only shutout of the season. Butch Bouchard of Montreal is leading the league in penalties, with 13 minutes spent in the box.

Pete Leswick Tied For Scoring Lead

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Pete Leswick of Indianapolis Capitals pulled into a tie with teammate Jerry Brown, during the past week for leadership in the American Hockey League scoring race.

Figures filed from headquarters showed that Leswick added five assists and one goal to his total during the past seven days for 18 points, the same number held by Brown who scored three goals and one assist since the last totals were compiled.

Gordy Sherritt of Cleveland Barons, who headed the penalty carrier's list a week ago with a total of 18 points, added nine more and was five minutes ahead of anybody else in the bad boy's brigade.

British Hockey Leaders Scout Canadian Players

LONDON (CP) — Major British hockey organizations for the first time will send special representatives to Canada this winter to scout and negotiate for players in preparation for resumption of British league hockey play in 1946-47, it was reported Monday by Harold David of Wembley Stadium.

With few exceptions, prewar British teams consisted mainly of Canadians who crossed the Atlantic without any agreement with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. But this season, David explained, British representatives will work in close cooperation with the Canadian amateur governing body, signing players only with its permission.

"The British Ice Hockey Association is most anxious to co-operate with the Canadian body," he added, "and we hope they will give us all the help they can in providing us with players."

Before the war there was a seven-team league in southern England. Teams were Wembley Lions, Wembley Monarchs, Harringay Racers, Harringay Greyhounds, Earls Court Rangers, Streatham and Brighton Tigers. All are expected to resume a year from now.

Gyro-Kiwanis Golf Match Tomorrow

Golf teams representing the Gyros and Kiwanis will battle it out for possession of the Norman Hill cup at the Colwood Golf tomorrow. The match was originally scheduled for last Wednesday, being postponed on account of the weather.

Players are asked to be on hand before 1 as the committee is anxious to get the field away to an early start. A medal competition will be played in addition to the team match.

Alberta Bears On Coast for Series

VANCOUVER (CP) — The University of Alberta's Golden Bears arrived here Monday, but coach Maury van Vleet would make no forecast as to the outcome in the final two games of the three-game total points series against University of B.C. Thunderbirds for the Hardy Cup, emblematic of western Canada intercollegiate football supremacy.

Bears defeated Thunderbirds 12 to 0 in the opening game in Edmonton and are slated to enter Wednesday's game as favorites. Greg Cabat, Thunderbird coach, also remained silent as to his team's chances, but said he had then whipped into better condition than when they invaded Alberta for the opening game.

Open Season On Does In Restricted Area

Those hunters who have often lined up a deer in their gun-sights only to have to hold fire on learning it had no horns, will welcome the news that a special order-in-council has authorized a two-week open season on does this year—but only in one specified area on the island.

Short season will commence on the closing of the buck deer season, Nov. 30, starting Dec. 1 and lasting until Dec. 15.

Only place where shooting of the female deer will be legal in this period is that area which generally takes in the Cobble Hill country. Does shot must be over one year old. Bag limit is one per person for the open season.

This is the second season running for legalizing the shooting of does. Main reason is that area concerned is highly agricultural, and the deer herds are a menace to farmers' crops. The doe population in this area is said to be of good size this year.

While undoubtedly some hunters like the prolongation of the season on deer, others claim they don't favor the idea of the legal being placed on does—after the closing of the season on the antlered specimens. They point out that ears easily conceal the spikes of young bucks. Hunters bring them down.

DOE AREA DETAILED

Here are the details on the 1945 doe season, stating in detail the area where their shooting is legal:

"Doe deer only, over one year of age, in those portions of Quamichan, Helmcken, Shawinigan, Cowichan, Soanemo, Cominak and Chemainus land districts on Vancouver Island, more particularly described as: Commencing at the white bridge over the Cowichan River and on the Island Highway at Duncan; thence southwesterly along Indian Road to Deerholme; thence southeasterly along the Canadian National Railway to Glen Eagles; thence easterly along West Arm or Halbed Road to the village of Shawnigan; thence easterly along the Shawnigan-Mill Bay Road to the Island Highway to the Solarium Road; thence easterly along the Solarium Road to the east shoreline of Vancouver Island at Mill Bay; thence northwesterly along the said shoreline to the mouth of the Chemainus River; thence southerly along said river to the Island Highway; thence southerly along the Island Highway to the point of commencement. Open season from Dec. 1 to Dec. 15.

Gyros Told City Should Push For Harbor Development

The prime importance of pushing for harbor development was a responsibility of the city council and its harbor committee, not of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, Walter Miles said in an address before members of the Victoria Gyro Club in Empress Hotel Monday.

He felt the city council at present had members who were insufficiently versed in trade and commerce to deal with knowledge on harbor development.

Mr. Miles, a director of the Chamber of Commerce and an active participant in shipping affairs, gave a brief outline of development of harbor facilities here. He suggested the club study harbor development, for which he believed there was a great number of opportunities.

He reminded the club the shipping situation was changing every week. The government shipping administrations of Canada and the U.S. were either converting or selling ships to other countries, and shipping would soon be back in the hands of private concerns, he said.

"If we are not united in our efforts and undertakings, we will get nowhere," he said. "We are now at one of the strategic points in the history of the port of Victoria."

He noted the Chamber of Commerce now had, in addition to backing of the civic and public organizations, the backing of all labor groups here.

BREAKWATERS NEEDED

He stressed what he believed the urgent need for two breakwaters, originally called for in plans for harbor development, and said the future of the fishing industry here depended on development of harbor facilities. The fishing industry could have a great future here, he believed.

The breakwaters would also give protection to big ships, he added, saying he had reason to believe the C.P.R. would use the port if the breakwaters were constructed.

He spoke of berthing facilities at Ogden Point, and said there had been times in peace years when vessels had been obliged to anchor in Royal Roads to wait for berths. That had not occurred during the war, he said, but warred shipping would soon return to normal.

Speaking of the number of lines which used to call in here, he said there was one, the American Mail Line, which had announced it did not intend to resume use of the port. The Chamber of Commerce was sending a representative to the company to find out the reason, he said.

Mr. Miles went on to say he believed the lumber assembly business and the whaling industry would be increased here if better harbor facilities were provided.

He spoke of the trade which was going from Canada by way of the Pacific coast, and held Victoria had a considerable advantage over Vancouver in not being bothered extensively with fog hazard. Ships could come in here and tranship their cargoes on to smaller vessels which had a far better chance of getting through.

In conclusion, he pointed out dredging contracts here were useless without the protection of breakwaters.

Victoria Man Saw Atom Bomb Blast

Cpl. Ward F. Redshaw, Victorian in the U.S. army, clambered out of a foxhole about a minute after the atomic bomb explosion wrecked Nagasaki.

"I saw a cloud," said Redshaw, on his return to this coast. "It was a beautiful rose-pink and it went higher and higher. It smelled—well, peculiar. The smell made me think the Nagasaki chemical plant had exploded."

Redshaw was a prisoner of war, then, and didn't find out until after his liberation that he had been a witness of the explosion of the atomic energy bomb.

With Cpl. Albert F. Tresch of Puyallup, Wash., who was loading Japanese freight cars 50 miles from Nagasaki and also witnessed the blast, Redshaw will tour Washington in behalf of the American victory bond campaign.

Cpl. Redshaw's mother, Mrs. E. Rosenthal, resides at 813 Island Road. Before he enlisted with the U.S. Army in 1940 he was well-known in sports circles here and in Cumberland. He was taken prisoner during the battle of Bataan and was moved from the Philippines to Japan two years ago.

Building permits were issued to T. S. Horne to build a 6-room house at 2541 Roseberry Street, value $6,000, and to E. E. Evans to build a 5-room house at 3136 Shelbourne.

7 Garagemen Fined

Seven service-station operators were fined $5 each in city police court Monday for failing to display, while closed on Sunday, Oct. 28, written notices giving the location of storage garages where motorists could get supplies of gasoline and crankcase oil for immediate requirements.

All seven pleaded guilty. One said that he always had closed on Sundays and did not see why he should now be required to advertise competitors.

The seven were W. A. Buckle,

Chet Dowman, Standard Oil Company, A. D. McLeod, F. J. Hughes, Davis Motor Co., and W. A. Crust.

Return to normal peacetime activities is indicated in the letter received by M. F. His little kid . . . the son he has never seen . . .
is in his arms at last.

"I'm your Pop!" he says. "I'm your Pop!"

He grins. He has to grin. What would the kid think if the sudden ache in his heart showed in his eyes?

A wooden soldier falls out of the tiny fist.

On the floor, around a tin cannon, are a dozen more.

"Hey!" he bursts out. "The war's over. Didn't you know? Oh, just a game, is it? It's no game, boy. I've been through it, and my Dad . . . my Dad didn't come through the last one. That's two of us. That's enough! No wars for you, sonny!"

He looks at his youngster and thinks: "The poor kid doesn't know what peace is. But, thank God, he'll have a chance to learn, now. He's going to grow up in the better world they've all been talking about. Let's hope these folks who stayed at home meant what they said."

Christmas Tree Harvest for Export Now In Full Swing

Annual harvest of Christmas trees in British Columbia for the export market is now in full swing and cutting will continue for export until the middle of December with a record cut expected in the Invermere district, largest Christmas tree producing area of the province.

Trees are now being shipped out by truck and rail to the large metropolitan centres of the central and eastern states, some trees going to the Atlantic seaboard.

The Invermere district last year produced about 1,106,000 trees, which sold at from 40 to 75c per ball.

ON VANCOUVER ISLAND

Some Christmas-tree cutting will also be done on Vancouver Island but not on the scale of 10 years ago when a considerable quantity of young Douglas fir trees were shipped from island logging centres to brighten the windows of homes across Canada and in the eastern United States.

The slower growing Douglas fir on the low benches of the Kootenay districts has proved superior to the faster-growing coast tree.

Some trees this year will also be shipped from the Fort George forest district to the United States.

While Vancouver Island has lost out in the export market of Christmas trees, forest lots on the island will undoubtedly supply the domestic market in these areas.

POACHERS GET CROP

In the past a considerable quantity of poaching and pilfering has been connected with Christmas-tree cutting, the young firs being taken without permit at night from private and crown lands and rushed by truck to the markets in Victoria and Vancouver.

The forest department of the provincial government feels that the Christmas-tree cutting industry may be concentrated even more in the Kootenay district in the future than it is at present.

Beside providing a superior tree for the market the Kootenay district lands on which Christmas trees are produced are not suitable for other forest products.

The forest service recognizes that Christmas trees are a legitimate forest product and believes that the perpetual production of Christmas trees on certain poor-quality growing sites can be good forestry if properly managed.

Efforts have been made to convert the industry from "mining" the land for trees to "farming" Christmas trees, with production being on a sustained yield basis.

Orders-in-Council

By provincial order-in-council R. A. Damstra, acting forest ranger, Nelson forest district, has been appointed a constable for the purposes of the Forest Act.

The government through order-in-council has approved the application of Bloedel, Stewart and Welch Ltd. to purchase 60 acres of land on Taylor River, Clayoquot district. The tract will be used as a logging camp site.

The provincial government has reserved for gravel pit purposes a parcel of land in the Cowichan district on the east branch of the Robertson River.

George Armstrong, Kaslo, has been appointed stipendiary magistrate and judge of the small debts court to succeed Ronald Hewat.

Formerly a commissioner while chairman of the T.B. Veterans' section of the Legion in Victoria, Richard Smith, Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion, has been appointed a commissioner to take affidavits.

Boilermakers to Ask Pearson to Continue In Labor Portfolio

A delegation to interview Labor Minister George S. Pearson to request him to abandon any thought of relinquishing his labor portfolio has been appointed by the Boilermakers' and Iron Shipbuilders' Union, Local No. 2, Victoria.

Members of the committee, it was announced today, are James D. Smith, union president; F. H. Dyke, secretary, and D. E. Fitzgerald, trustee.

Since the re-election of the Coalition government it has been rumored at the Parliament Buildings and elsewhere that for health reasons and because of the load of work which will come with the postwar expansion of social services, Mr. Pearson might request that he be relieved of his labor portfolio to devote all his time to his work as Provincial Secretary. Mr. Pearson is also provincial Commissioner of Fisheries.

"We feel," said Mr. Smith, "that with the conversion of industry from war to peace activities, and the subsequent shift of labor, Mr. Pearson is needed more than at any time since he took over the labor post in 1933 as a protector of working men's rights."

PEARSON DREW VOTES

"Many thousands of workers voted for Coalition candidates in the recent election solely because Mr. Pearson was Labor Minister and they had the utmost confidence that they would receive a square deal as long as he remained such. To them, Mr. Pearson's relinquishment of the post would be a sad blow."

Premier John Hart just after the election indicated no shifting of the cabinet would be made until after the final count of ballots after Nov. 15.

Shuffling is necessary because of the failure of Education Minister H. G. T. Perry to win re-election in Fort George constituency.

Latest Parliament Buildings "buzzes" have Dr. George Weir, former education minister of provincial secretary, and Norman W. Whittaker, K.C., Speaker of the 20th Legislature, as slated for this portfolio.

Agriculture Minister K. C. MacDonald, who was unable to conduct an election campaign because of illness but nevertheless was re-elected in North Okanagan, may also have to relinquish his portfolio because of ill health.

Frank Putnam, re-elected in Nelson-Creston Oct. 25, who was agriculture minister for a short time in the Pattullo government before the formation of the Coalition regime in late 1941, is mentioned for this post if it is relinquished by Dr. MacDonald.

Wilson and Cabellu Staff at Banquet

At their annual staff banquet Monday night, Wilson & Cabellu Ltd., welcomed back Col. Ted Cabellu after four years' absence with Canadian Ordnance Corps, and no less than 31 servicemen of all ranks from all three branches of the armed forces.

Under the chairmanship of Harold Banks, manager of the Wilson & Cabellu body shop, a unique program was carried out for the entertainment of the 80 members of the staff present.

The names of the 31 returned men were called, and all were given a rousing welcome by their fellow-workers, who had kept the wheels turning in their absence.

R. B. Wilson spoke briefly of the firm's activities during the difficult war years, and thanked the staff for loyal co-operation, and drew a heartening and encouraging picture of what might be expected as wartime restrictions were gradually removed.

Col. Ted Cabellu described the new Chevrolet, the Oldsmobile and the Cadillac which would soon be on the market and which Wilson & Cabellu will present to Victoria, and predicted a prosperous future for the automotive trade in general.

Members of the Wilson & Cabellu staff from Oak Bay, Langford and Duncan, were also present, and the evening closed with much appreciated professional entertainment.

Seated at the head table with R. B. Wilson and Col. Ted Cabellu were: Miss Valentine, office manager; George Thackery, head of the service staff, and Sam Keeble, assistant general manager.

Meeting Here Thursday To Discuss Ford Strike

Buys Bonds for Brother

Because she had one brother in the R.C.A.F. who was killed on active service, because she has another brother who has recently received a discharge from the navy, and because she has a fiancé who is awaiting discharge from the army, Miss Alice Garonsky, second cook at the Pacific Club, is buying a $500 9th Victory Loan bond. She is shown above with J. P. D. Chadwick, loan salesman, as she signs up for the bond. Miss Garonsky who is 21 years old and comes originally from Winnipeg, said she was told that the 9th Loan was to "bring the boys back" and she wants to do all she can to help. Her parents, who still live in Winnipeg, came from Poland but all the children were born in Canada.

1,300 Repatriates Say Farewell

Thirteen hundred British repatriates from Japanese prison camps left Victoria on two special C.P.R. boats en route to their homes in the United Kingdom.

First to leave was Ss. Princess Victoria which sailed at 9.30 with 880 repatriates. Ss. Princess Joan left at 11.30 with 430.

A number of Victorians stood on the ramp as the veterans pulled away singing "Auld Lang Syne," to the music of a military band.

The starboard rail of the Joan was lined with repatriates, and her multi-colored bunting lent warmth to the scene.

Acclamation Looms For Mayor George For Second Term

Acclamation of Mayor Percy George for a second term in office was indicated today as all suggested and rumored opponents declared that they had no intention of opposing the present officeholder.

Ex-mayor Andrew McGavin, who it has been rumored would try for office again, said today that he would not consider running again. Ex-alderman Lloyd Morgan, who was also mentioned as a possible mayoralty candidate, denied that he had considered it. However, there are indications that he might again enter the aldermanic field. Mr. Morgan would not make a definite statement on this.

Ald. H. M. Diggon, who has one more year in his present term of office, and Ald. Ed Williams, who comes up for re-election this year, both denied rumors that they would run for mayor.

There has been very little activity in the municipal election field as yet, although nomination day is just one month away. Of the five aldermen coming up for re-election only one has made a definite statement. Ald. W. H. Davies, one of the aldermen of long standing, has announced his retirement.

There seems little doubt but that Ald. T. W. Hawkins, Ald. Ed Williams, Ald. B. J. Gadsder and Ald. F. A. Willis will enter the field again, although none of them say they have made up their minds yet.

Mrs. Margaret D. Christie, first woman alderman in Victoria, who was defeated last December, announced her candidature some weeks ago. T. A. Cresswell, who has tried unsuccessfully a number of times for a council seat, has entered the field again.

OTHER PROSPECTS

Labor has announced a municipal platform and it is expected that they will enter a full slate of candidates. There is also some talk of the Junior Chamber of Commerce entering the field of municipal politics.

In the school board field Miss Isla Tuck has stated that she will run for re-election, and indications are that the other trustees, F. G. Mulliner, W. A. Bayliss and W. Ord, will all enter the field again, although Mr. Bayliss said earlier that press of business might keep him out.

Maj. R. H. Green, local barrister, who served on the school board prior to his enlistment and service overseas, may again be a candidate for trustee.

Police Commissioner D. M. Tavish, whose term expires this year, has made no announcement to date, and no one else has entered the field.

Just An Ordinary Lightning Storm

There was nothing puzzling about the series of blue flashes in the sky followed by low rumbling sounds which brought Victorians out of their homes Monday night between 9 and 11 to investigate.

"It was honest-to-goodness lightning and thunder," said observatory officials at Gonzales this morning as they chuckled over accounts that no scientific explanation could be given for the disturbance.

The forked and sheet lightning storm was centred near Mount Baker in a northeasterly direction from Victoria, and it was reported that Washington air bases had warned aircraft flying in the vicinity to stay clear.

Some people thought the lightning flashes were northern lights; others suggested searchlight practice and the rumblings distant gunfire.

Dwellings Cost $995
Three-room, prefabricated houses are being built at a Regina box factory for ex-servicemen, the Citizens' Rehabilitation Council was told at a recent meeting. Top price for the unit is $995 with services rendered.

CORRESPONDENCE COURSES

The new booklet published by the Rehabilitation Information Committee, "Vocational Training on Clivity Street," points out that correspondence courses for veterans desiring additional training are not generally encouraged, but that applications for such courses can be made to the district rehabilitation board if employers approve and if the courses are closely related either to the veterans' regular jobs or their immediate prospects.

SEEKING WAR ASSETS

Vancouver Citizens' Rehabilitation Council is urging that first priority after the three services on surplus war goods should go to the Department of Veterans' Affairs. The council is of the opinion that no more assets should be released until the department has had 30 days in which to secure the materials, if it wishes, for veterans' vocational training purposes or for sale on reasonable terms to veterans who can use them in their new businesses.

16 TAKING COURSE

Sixteen former members of the navy, army and air force are attending the Canadian Vocational School for Motor Mechanics on Kings Road. Motion pictures and 70 sets of slides are used to show the veterans engine construction, principles of operation and repair procedure. Engines and component parts from modern cars also are available for study. The course ends with written and practical examinations. Instructor G. Reside claims that men can be trained in a third the time required by garage apprenticeship, because of the school's special facilities.

Doctor to Face Charge Friday

Dr. Donald Watson Beach of McBride, B.C., will appear in police court at Prince George Friday on a charge of omitting to perform his legal duty as a doctor. The charge was laid in connection with the death of Mrs. Rose Irene Soucy, 23, and under Section 241 of the Criminal Code.

Mrs. Soucy and a son Richard, two, were fatally burned when a gasoline lamp exploded and destroyed their home at McBride, Oct. 44. Another son, Gary, five, is recovering in hospital from critical burns.

Dr. Beach who was attending the three Soucys told a coroner's jury at Prince George that he left them in hospital to look after some hunting equipment, saying "my boat was in a precarious spot loaded with supplies. There was nobody to take care of it."

In Vancouver, Dr. A. J. MacLachlan, registrar of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of British Columbia, said Monday night the college cannot take any action against Dr. Beach until the case has been before the courts.

"What we do, whatever the finding of the court, is problematical," said Dr. MacLachlan.

Registration Speeds For Small Arms In British Columbia

Inspector Roger Peachey of the Criminal Investigation Branch of the B.C. Police said today a considerable number of owners of small arms had registered their weapons with the police during the last few weeks since an appeal and warning that these weapons must be registered.

While no figures were available today, Mr. Peachey said both in Victoria and Vancouver registrations had been coming in. A few weeks ago he had announced there were 11,000 unregistered small arms, including revolvers and automatic pistols, within the province.

The plea for registration was made in an effort to halt crime and future crime.

While as yet no policy has been mapped out in the past following the registration period, which comes every five years, the B.C. Police checked with persons who were on their books from the previous period, but did not register their weapons again.

This would be a tremendous undertaking for the police to check up the remainder of the originally 11,000 unregistered guns in the province since the end of the war, but the police may resort to it again.

Among the unregistered weapons are a considerable quantity of war trophies which returning servicemen have failed to list with the police. Co-operation of discharge officers has assisted in making the registration of these weapons more complete than formerly.

Any person buying or selling a revolver or pistol is required to first secure a permit from the police. Owners of these weapons must register them with the police every five years.

Coalition With 37 Indicated By Atlin

The Coalition government's representation in the new B.C. Legislature was increased to 37 today with the election of W. D. Smith indicated in Atlin on the basis of the civilian vote.

Atlin, last doubtful constituency following the Oct. 25 provincial election, has been the scene of a close race between Mr. Smith and Norman Cunningham, C.C.F., The candidates were tied at several stages of the count.

The complete unofficial count for the 11 civilian polls in the far-flung northern constituency was Smith 288 and Cunningham 281. Each also received a vote in the registered active service ballot announced Oct. 26.

The final unofficial standing in the 48-seat Legislature follows, with standing at dissolution in brackets: Coalition 37 (30); C.C.F. 10 (15); Labor 1 (1). At dissolution there was also one Liberal member and one vacancy.

There has been no official estimate of the number of marked ballots in the non-registered service vote, to be announced Nov. 15 or later, but it is believed it will not make any change in the standings.

Municipal Employees Vote to Join Labor

The Joint Council of Public Employees, representing 22 municipal employee groups in British Columbia, including municipal employee groups of Victoria, Oak Bay and Saanich, has almost unanimously voted to affiliate with the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

W. M. Black of Vancouver, president of the joint council, announced today the vote had been completed and affiliation endorsed. Involved are 3,500 employees of cities and municipalities in British Columbia.

Today the council representatives met with authorities of the employee groups of Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay, and later the council officers, including Mr. Black, Sidney Pipe, actuary for the Superannuation Act.

Mayor W. Mott of New Westminster, and Alderman John Bennett of Vancouver, interviewed Norman Baker, chairman of the provincial Superannuation Commission, to discuss implementation of a municipal employees' minimum service pension of $50 per month.

Gas Truck Overflow Starts Fatal Fire In Downtown Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—A woman died and three persons suffered minor injuries here today when a rooming house was gutted by fire caused by the ignition of gasoline overflowing from a truck.

Mrs. Rose Anderson, about 60, died from burns and shock as the flames rapidly enveloped the frame building after breaking out in the basement of the house at Seymour and Smythe Streets near the downtown section of Vancouver.

The driver of the truck was absent while his truck was being filled and the gasoline overflowed and seeped into the rooming house basement, where it caught fire. There was no explosion.

The three injured are William E. Britten, a blind man; George Tyler, an old age pensioner; and Mildred Pearce. All suffered minor burns and shock and were affected by the smoke. Britten and Tyler lived in the attic. They were taken to a hospital.

Only other occupant of the rooming house when the fire broke out was Mrs. T. Loughran, owner. Miss Pearce, a sister of Mrs. Loughran, is stone deaf.

Cliff Durham, former pilot in the R.C.A.F. Ferry Command and driver of the truck, told Capt. Archibald King, fire warden, he left gasoline running into the truck while he took a bill across the street.

"When I returned it was all fire and as near as I could find out the tank had overflowed," Durham said.

Accused Denies Door Tampering

Denying he had tampered with a back door of the Safeway Store at 301 Menzies Street, of which he is charged with breaking and entering in the early hours of June 3 of this year, Gordon Allen McLaughlin on trial in Assizes Court here today, said he had gone to the rear of the store on his way home from an evening of drinking to be sick when police constables took him in custody.

McLaughlin took the stand in his own defence after completion of the prosecution by Crown Prosecutor Robert D. Harvey, K.C. He is being defended by Joseph McKenna. First case of the Fall Assizes, the hearing is before Mr. Justice J. M. Coady of Vancouver.

Late Monday and this morning, City Police Constables Stanley Hiscock, Robert Morris and Samuel McKenzie told of taking the accused into custody.

Constable Hiscock, who resided next door to the Safeway Store, said he heard noises at the rear of the store when he arrived home off duty early that morning. When he saw the form of a man working at a back door of the store, he went and phoned for the police and waited at a fence between the two properties for their arrival.

When the patrol arrived a few minutes later, Constable Morris went around the rear of the building, the testimony stated. When Morris turned his flashlight on the man, the man ran and Constable Hiscock jumped the fence and caught him.

Before cross-examination, members of the jury were taken to the scene of the alleged breaking and entering to see the premises.

and two sons, William Iverson of North Vancouver and J. T. Iverson, Tattersall Drive, Victoria, also survive.

BACKWOODS SCHOOL-MASTERS "TAUGHT TO TUNE OF HICKORY STICK"

Boys and girls of today have good schools to attend. Millions of dollars are paid from the public treasury for buildings and the cost of teaching.

Going back a century or two, we find a different picture. In pioneer days on this continent, it was hard for children to get proper schooling. It was the common custom for parents to pay "fees" to teachers who kept schools of one kind or another.

The backwoods school was a quaint place. A log cabin (which might have only a single window) made up a schoolhouse. The pupils ranged widely in age, some being only seven or eight years old, while others were well up in their teens. At the present time, one-room country schools exist in backward districts, and these have pupils of many ages, but at least the lighting is better, and there is better equipment.

And the BIRCH was never idle for long.

In a backwoods school, the teacher almost always was a man. He felt that he had to "drive" knowledge into the heads of the boys and girls in the school. Close at hand, he kept a birch rod or hickory stick. An old song was written about him, and in it were these words, "Read and riting and 'rithmetick, taught to the tune of a hickory stick."

The three subjects named in the song make up the famous "three R's." To this day, reading, writing and arithmetic are among the subjects. Yet pupils in modern schools learn many other things, including grammar, geography and history.

Even in the matter of the "three R's," the old-time schoolmasters were lacking, at times. Arithmetic, the third "R," seems to have given them the most trouble. They might add and subtract fairly well, but would often find it hard to get the right answers in long division.

School years nowadays last about nine months on the average. In backwoods days, some of the teachers were "travelling schoolmasters." They would spend only two or three months in a district, then would go to another district.

Most pioneer children grew up with a poor education, but some among them found that the ability to read gave them a "magic key." They used their free time to read all the good books they could find, and in this way they educated themselves to a high point.

Bought By U.B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Thirty-six army huts which compose the entire camp at the corner of Eighth Street and 10th Avenue in New Westminster, has been purchased from the War Assets Corporation by the University of B.C. The huts will provide additional lecture rooms, laboratories and living accommodations for 1,500 veterans expected to attend U.B.C. in January.

VIRUS PNEUMONIA, A RECENT DISCOVERY

By WILLIAM A. O'BRIEN, D.D.

When patients with respiratory infections were given special X-ray, blood and bacteriologic tests a few years ago, a new variety of pneumonia was brought to light. It was learned that pneumonia (inflammation of the lungs) could be caused by a virus as well as by germs. Virus pneumonia is also known as a typical pneumonia because of its irregular course and symptoms.

Virus pneumonia starts with a running nose, throat irritability, headache, chilliness, fever, generalized body aches and cough. Usual story is a neglected head cold which became more severe.

X-RAY SHOWS TROUBLE

Complaints of weakness, sweating, loss of appetite are common. Temperature usually is not high, color is good and breathing is not labored. Examination of the chest with the X-ray shows extensive involvement with patches throughout both lungs. These patches are caused by collapsed air sacs from which the swollen, inflamed bronchi have shut off the air; when the bronchi reopen, the shadows disappear as the air returns.

Average patients are acutely ill about a week or 10 days, but are not considered to be well until the lungs are clear.

Dry, harsh, irritating cough is a troublesome feature of virus pneumonia. Patients often cough until the chest and abdominal muscles are sore; fractured ribs have been reported from excessive coughing. Cough may persist for three or four weeks after the fever has subsided.

Virus pneumonia has been transmitted to healthy subjects who volunteered for the experiment. The infection is moderately contagious and may occur in epidemics.

PLENTY OF LIQUIDS

Patients with virus pneumonia should stay in bed a week or 10 days, or longer if necessary. They need plenty of nourishing food, and should be encouraged to drink liberal quantities of water and juices. Drugs which suppress irritating cough and relax inflamed, irritated bronchi bring the most relief. Sulfa

Jailed 5 Years On Gun Charge

VANCOUVER (CP) — Victor R. Kube, 17, was sentenced to five years in penitentiary by Magistrate H. S. Wood in police court today for being in possession of a revolver.

Kube, Neilly D. Ramsay, 18, and David L. Lash were remanded on robbery with violence charges until Tuesday.

The charges were laid in connection with two theatre hold-ups here last month.

Norman Vickers, 20, was remanded to Friday for hearing of a robbery with violence charge in connection with a taxi driver hold-up Saturday.

The four men were taken into custody over the week-end as police intensified investigations following seven armed hold-ups in a week.

"Thanks to you, Grandpa Kruschen ..."

As he is getting on toward middle age, this man is especially grateful for the way in which Kruschen helped him with his sciatic pain. Here's what he says:

"At one time I suffered for months with sciatic and rheumatic pains and had to use a cane when I walked. But after taking Kruschen for awhile, I could manage without the cane. That was four years ago and since then I have had no return of the complaint nor have I lost a day's work. I shall try Kruschen myself. Your nearest neighbor without Kruschen and can honestly recommend it to anyone who suffers as I did."—Mr. C. F.

Kruschen ... the saline treatment ... offers relief in many cases of sciatic pain, because its action is to help remove underlying causes. And one of the underlying causes of pain and ill health is the accumulation of harmful waste matter in your system. Kruschen aids your organs of elimination and thereby brings about improvement. Thousands of persons bothered with sciatic and rheumatic pains have benefited by taking Kruschen; and that is a very good reason why you should try Kruschen yourself. Your nearest drug store has Kruschen Salts in two sizes: 25c. and 75c.

RUTH GILLETTE in Romberg's beloved opera, "Blossom Time," at the Royal Victoria, Friday and Saturday.

Schubert Music For 'Blossom Time'

Franz Schubert, whose music, adapted by Sigmund Romberg, enriches the score of "Blossom Time" which comes to the Royal Victoria for two performances,
Friday and Saturday, was born near Vienna, Jan. 31, 1797.

He was one of 14 children of a musically inclined family. He passed away, a young man, only 31 years of age. Schubert was very poor, and only through the help of his friends was he able to exist, while pouring forth his genius in writing his famous
"Unfinished" Symphony, "Ave Maria," "Serenade" and others.

As fast as he finished one composition he would begin another, and often wrote several songs in a single day. On his monument are appropriately inscribed the words: "Music has been entombing a rich treasure."

Warner Comedy Held Over at Dominion

William Prince gets his best break in pictures playing the romantic lead opposite Ida Lupino in Warner Bros. "Pillow to Post," currently at the Dominion.

The role is that of a tough, dynamic, free-swinging guy.
While reminiscing on the set not so long ago, Director Vincent Sherman revealed his reason for selecting young Prince.

Sherman was seeing another film in the studio projection room, and was especially impressed with a fight scene between a studio extra and Prince.
Prince "kayode" the guy with a vicious "haymaker."

"Any guy that's got a 'Sunday punch' like that," grinned Sherman, "is plenty good enough for me for the romantic lead in 'Pillow to Post.'"

The film also stars Sydney Greenstreet, the "Fat Man," in a new and different role.

CAPITOL THEATRE

If she has her way, which she usually gets, Betty Hutton will play the lead in a big western picture before the year is out.

Betty went through elaborate training in roping, riding and gun-shooting for early sequences in Paramount's "Incendiary Blonde," the Technicolor musical currently at the Capitol Theatre, based on the life of Texas Guinah. As a rodeo star, she had to know her stuff and worked a month in advance of the picture's start perfecting her technique.

Betty liked the western scenes so much that she is working on her bosses to purchase a story of Arizona which she read while on location in Tucson. The story is by Edward Lynn, a long-time resident of the city.

YORK THEATRE

Jazz sessions, swing music and night clubs form the background of PRC's modern melodrama,
"Why Girls Leave Home," which is currently at the York Theatre.
It is a dramatic original story by Fanya Foss Lawrence which emphasizes the point that envy and avarice are just as strong in the hearts of humans today as they have been from time immemorial and that their consequences are just as dire.

Lola Lane and Sheldon
Leonard lead a carefully chosen cast of "Why Girls Leave Home." Prominent among the players are Pamela Blake, Elisha Cook, Jr.,
Paul Guilfoyle, Constance Worth,
Claudia Drake, Virginia Brissac,
Thomas Jackson and Peggy Lou Blanco. The picture was directed by William Berke and produced by Sam Sax.

RIO THEATRE

Turban Bey, filmdom's newest romantic heart-throb, reveals hitherto hidden talent in his latest Universal picture, "Sudan," which is now at the Rio Theatre.

For the first time in his four years of motion picture work, the handsome Turk will be heard singing. With Maria Montez, his co-star in the Universal technicolor adventure romance, he sings a duet.

OAK BAY - PLAZA THEATRES

When you see the G.C.F. production of "Colonel Blimp," which is now at the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres through United Artists release, you will be enchanted with the exquisite tapestries on which all the introductory titles have been woven. These tapestries were created especially for the film by the Royal Needlework Guild of England.

It is the most lavish, and, at the same time, the most breathtaking method of calling attention to film titles ever adopted by a studio. Filmed magnificently in technicolor, the tapestries are woven in deep, lush colors that are a joy to the eye and serve as a fascinating preview to the film itself.

Starring in this tale of high adventure and romance are Anton Walbrook, well known here for his work in "The Invaders," and two fine English players, Deborah Kerr and Roger Livesey.

P. L. James Resigns As Architect For Memorial Arena

P. L. James, one of the four architects who has been working on plans for the Memorial Arena, tendered his resignation to the City Council meeting Monday by letter.

Mr. James stated that he could not serve as associate architect for the Memorial Arena because of the committee's approval of the patented barrel-type concrete roof, and therefore he wished to dissociate himself from the project.

Ald. F. A. Willis, chairman of the arena committee, expressed surprise at the resignation, stating that Mr. James had made no objections at the committee meeting when the patented roof was approved.

The committee does not yet know if the concrete roof will cost slightly more or slightly less to construct than the steel truss roof, he said, but it had other advantages in that maintenance would be materially less and insurance rates would be only one-third what they would be with the steel and lumber construction.

It will be necessary to have the company that owns the patent appoint a supervising engineer for construction, because those are the only terms under which the roof is sold.

3 Awarded D.F.C.

FO. George J. Keeper, above, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Keeper, 934 Balmoral, one of three island R.C.A.F. officers awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross in recognition of services overseas, according to an announcement today by R.C.A.F. headquarters, Ottawa.

The other two are Flt. Lt. A. L. Pearson, whose brother, W. A. Pearson, lives at 3340 Cedar Hill Road, and FO. J. E. L. John, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. John, Glenelg, Sidney.

FO. Keeper, first reported missing in action in March, 1945, was liberated from a German prisoner of war camp at the end of April.
The citation with his award says:
"This officer attacked some of the most heavily-defended industrial targets in Germany."

It tells how, while en route to Witten, Germany, one engine of his aircraft failed and the plane subsequently was badly damaged by anti-aircraft at the target.

"Shortly afterwards," it continues, a forced landing became imminent and he displayed great skill in keeping his crippled bomber airborne, thus enabling his crew to leave safely by parachute. Throughout this trying experience FO. Keeper, by his cool courage and efficiency, inspired his crew with confidence."

Flt. Lt. Pearson was awarded the D.F.C. for making four runs over Stuttgart in the face of intense anti-aircraft fire while his bombs were released manually, the bomb release apparatus having become unserviceable. Flt. Lt.
Pearson also made attacks on such heavily-defended targets as Kamen, Cologne, Essen, Hamburg and Chemnitz.

"At all times," he citation says,
"Flt. Lt. Pearson has proved to be a courageous and determined captain of aircraft."

FO. John enlisted in July, 1942, and won his wings and commission in June, 1943. He was awarded his D.F.C. in recognition of gallantry and devotion to duty in the execution of air operations.

tained what the exact situation was, and whether it would cost the citizens of Victoria any money should the vote be in favor of public ownership.

Ald. J. A. Worthington charged that there had been misrepresen-tations to the council when it held its special meeting last Monday, prior to Mayor Percy George, Ald. Williams and city solicitor A. J. Patton going to Vancouver to attend the special meeting of 31 municipalities on the subject.

Mayor George took exception to the charges of misrepresentation, pointing out that the Gilman Report had been presented and discussed, and there had been no change in that. Mr.
Patton stoutly denied that there was any change in any part of the situation, contending that Premier Hart's telegram to Mayor J. W. Cornett of Vancouver had been unfortunately worded. This telegram is generally being interpreted to mean that the provincial government will require the municipalities to back the purchase of B.C.E.R. assets, if the purchase is approved, with their own bonds.

Ald. Williams declared: "If I had the knowledge last Wednesday that I have now I should not have been in favor of a referendum at all. We should have it clearly set out in writing from the Premier exactly what the true situation is."

"I don't want to be associated in any way with the taking over of the public utilities, or holding a referendum until assured that the citizens of Victoria will not be assessed one dollar on this.
If necessary, I'm prepared to fight the issue all night."

Mayor George said that he was not prepared at this stage to change his mind on the referendum question, and that he was not prepared to base a change of opinion purely on newspaper reports, preferring to obtain information direct from Premier Hart.

Council Favors Correcting Staff Salary Inequalities

Ald. J. A. Worthington made an unsuccessful attempt Monday to have salary changes of city hall staff referred to the city comptroller or report before consideration and passage by the council. Ald. B. I. Gadsden, only supporter for the motion, said he did not think the council should deal with individual salary cases.

Ald. Williams said that there had been salary inequalities in the city hall for 10 years to his knowledge and he felt that individual cases should be heard and equalized so that the officials were receiving what they would be had they left the city employ during the early days of the war and taken other employment. "We don't appreciate the value of city employees," he declared.

EXCHANGE BONDS

Exchange of $131,500 worth of Alberta 4 1/2 per cent bonds, maturing in 1967 for the new refunding issue was approved. Ald.
Worthington felt that the city should hold out a payment of the additional interest which Alberta defaulted some years ago, however it was pointed out to him that the Dominion government had approved the refunding.

Purchase of $5,000 in 9th Loan Victory Bonds for the Ross Bay Cemetery Maintenance Fund and $250 for the Old Men's Home Entertainment Fund was approved.
A grant of $360 to the Navy League and of $73.10 to the Boy Scouts Association to enable them to pay their taxes.

Appointments of M. F. Waller as paymaster, on probation for three months, and of Flt. Lt.
Alex Batchelor, D.F.C. and Bar, as apprentice electrician in the electric light department were approved.

LAND SALES

Sale of 16 parcels of land, six of them to veterans, for a total of $9,770 was approved by council. The lands and zoning committee recommendation that 1027 Queens Avenue and 1497 Myrtle Street be rezoned to permit grocery stores already established to remain there was passed.

After a long argument on policy, as to whether it was a good idea to have a full-time engineer on the waterworks under G. M. Irwin, water commissioner, a recommendation of the water board that R. H. Davies be appointed assistant water commissioner was referred back for consideration of a joint meeting of the public works committee and the water board.

The entire council is to attend
the Canadian Legion Remembrance Day service at the War Memorial at 11 a.m. Sunday morning.

It was decided to round the corner, at a cost of $145, of the northeast corner of the intersection of Haultain and Shel-bourne Avenues.

Approval was given to the placing of stop signs on the south side of David Street, where it intersects with the west side of Bridge Street, and on the north side of Cormorant Street where it intersects with the east side of Blanshard Street.

DOG LICENSES

It was decided to charge a $4 license fee for dogs, payable Jan. 2, with the fee reduced to $2 for dogs under six months old, where she took on stores and fuel, for the United Kingdom. She will take on several passengers at New York. Cmdr.
G.W.A.T. Irvine, D.S.C. and Bar, R.D., R.N.R., is her captain.

12-Man Board For Town Planning Named By City

The 12-man Town Planning Commission for the city of Victoria was set up at Monday's City Council meeting when the council balloted on a panel of 16 names, plus one nominee from the floor, placed before them by the town planning committee.

Those elected for a three-year term were E. N. Horsey, F. Butterfield and Forrest L. Shaw.

Appointed for a two-year term were Walter Miles, W. E. G.
Crisford and H. W. Davey. Selected for a one-year term were Miss Marjorie Hill, R. H. B. Ker and R. A. C. Dewar.

As the terms expire the new appointees will fill the position for three years, with three new appointments being made each year, it was explained by Ald.
Ed. Williams, chairman of the town planning committee.

Ex-officio members will be Mayor Percy George, Austin I.
Curtis, chairman of the school board, and Ald. D. D. McTavish, chairman of the city parks committee.

Chairman of the commission will be named by the members at the first meeting of the new group.

None of the elected members have been consulted and it is possible that some might not choose to act, Ald. Williams pointed out.

Press for Action On Amalgamation

"The City Council, on recommendation of the intermunicipal committee Monday decided to press for appointment of a fact-finding commission by the provincial government to survey the Greater Victoria area and report on the feasibility of amalgamation of the four municipalities.

Similar resolutions have been forwarded to the other three municipalities and they are asked to appoint delegates to join with the city committee and approach the provincial government to ask the implementation of the resolution. The delegates are instructed that they cannot undertake any financial obligation upon the municipalities without first referring the matter back to their respective councils.
